Quality Time The Report Of The Twentieth Century Fund Task Force On Public Television:

Quality Time? The Report of the Twentieth Century Fund Task Force on Public Television Twentieth Century Fund. Task Force on Public Television, Richard Somerset-Ward, 1993 This volume discusses the development and future of public television as a cross cutting issue and asks whether the federal government will take action similar to what has transpired in Europe today

Public Television B. J. Bullert, 1997 Public television's original mandate required it to address issues of controversy and facilitate the inclusion of voices and perspectives from outside the established consensus Through detailed chronology the author of this text traces how far this obligation has been met

Recovering a Public Vision for Public Television Glenda R. Balas, 2003 In 1995 US public television faced possible elimination of federal funding potentially commercialising this type of broadcasting This study suggests that these strains have undermined public broadcasting historically the result is that programming no longer prioritises social reform

Public Broadcasting and the Public Interest Michael P. McCauley, B. Lee Artz, DeeDee Halleck, Paul E Peterson, 2016-09-16 As federal funding for public broadcasting wanes and support from corporations and an elite group of viewers and listeners rises public broadcasting's role as vox populi has come under threat With contributions from key scholars from a wide variety of disciplines this volume examines the crisis facing public broadcasting today by analyzing the institution's development its presentday operations and its prospects for the future Covering everything from globalization and the rise of the Internet to key issues such as race and class to specific subjects such as advertising public access and grassroots radio Public Broadcasting and the Public Interest provides a fresh and original look at a vital component of our mass media

Public Radio and Television in America Ralph Engelman, 1996-04-22 The origins and evolution of the major institutions in the United States for noncommercial radio and television are explored in this unique volume Ralph Engelman examines the politics behind the development of National Public Radio Radio Pacifica and the Public Broadcasting Service He traces the changing social forces that converged to launch and shape these institutions from the Second World War to the present day The book challenges several commonly held beliefs including that the mass media is simply a manipulative tool and concludes that public broadcasting has an enormous potential as an emancipatory vehicle

Encyclopedia of the Documentary Film 3-Volume Set Ian Aitken, 2013-10-18 The Encyclopedia of the Documentary Film is a fully international reference work on the history of the documentary film from the Lumière brothers' Workers Leaving the Lumière Factory 1885 to Michael Moore's Fahrenheit 9/11 2004 This Encyclopedia provides a resource that critically analyzes that history in all its aspects Not only does this Encyclopedia examine individual films and the careers of individual film makers it also provides overview articles of national and regional documentary film history It explains concepts and themes in the study of documentary film the techniques used in making films and the institutions that support their production appreciation and preservation role on the crew of the major PBS documentary series Childhood. As a researcher for the series he investigated the relationship between children and media. As an anthropologist however his subject was the television production process itself examining for example how producers developed the series negotiated with their academic advisors and shaped footage shot around the world into seven programs. He presents the results of his fieldwork in this groundbreaking study one of the first to take an ethnographic approach to the production of a television show as opposed to its reception. Dornfeld begins with a broad discussion of public television's role in American culture and goes on to examine documentaries as a form of popular anthropology. Drawing on his observations of Childhood he considers the documentary form as a kind of imagining in which both producers and viewers construct understandings of themselves and others revealing their conceptions of culture and history and their ideologies of cultural difference and universality. He argues that producers of culture should also be understood as consumers who conduct their work through an active envisioning of the audience. Dornfeld explores as well how intellectual media professionals struggle with the institutional and cultural forces surrounding television that promote entertainment at the expense of education. The book provides a rare glimpse behind the scenes of a major documentary and demonstrates the value of an ethnographic approach to the study of media production. Media Worlds Faye D.

Producing Public Television, Producing Public Culture Barry Dornfeld, 2021-02-09 From 1989 to 1991 Barry Dornfeld had an unusual double

Ginsburg, Lila Abu-Lughod, Brian Larkin, 2002. This landmark collection maps and motivates the anthropological voice in media studies by locating the media in worlds of practice, sentiment, debate and dissent. Using such vivid examples as the image management of the Dalai Lama and the social organization of Nigerian cinema theatres the authors remind us that media machineries are not more magical than the social worlds they inhabit and project. Commitment To Culture Kevin V. Mulcahy, 2021-11-28. Robert Mapplethorpe and Andres Serrano are now legendary as much because of NEA support of their work as for the work itself. This is one example of what can happen when politics meets culture and it provides an appropriate snapshot of the issues explored in this book. As in other policy areas cultural policies develop within a particular political context evolve as a consequence of government action or inattention and affect a variety of publics and interests. In this volume the contributors explore the inescapable politics accompanying public culture. Surveying the philosophical, economic, legal and political underpinnings of cultural assistance they articulate not only governments role in the support of the arts but also basic questions for future cultural policy. Robert Mapplethorpe and Andres Serrano are now legendary as much because of NEA support of their work as for the work itself. This is one example of what can happen when politics meets culture and it provides an appropriate snapshot of the issues explored in this book. As in other policy areas cultural policies develop within a particular political context evolve as a consequence of government action or inattention and affect a variety of publics and interests. America's Commitment to Culture discusses government support of culture as a public policy area. The book focuses on the rationales underlying public support for the arts and examines the development and practice of government as an arts patron. The contributors explore the inescapable politics

A Social History of Contemporary Democratic Media Jesse Drew,2013-05-02 The last few decades have helped dispel the myth that media should remain driven by high end professionals and market share This book puts forward the concept of communications from below in contrast to the globalization from above that characterizes many new developments in international organization and media practices By examining the social and technological roots that influence current media evolution Drew allows readers to understand not only the Youtubes and Facebooks of today but to anticipate the trajectory of the technologies to come Beginning with a look at the inherent weaknesses of the U S broadcasting model of mass media Drew outlines the early 1960s and 1970s experiments in grassroots media where artists and activists began to re engineer electronic technologies to target local communities and underserved audiences From these local projects emerged national and international communications projects creating production models social networks and citizen expectations that would challenge traditional means of electronic media and cultural production Drew s perspective puts the social and cultural use of the user at the center not the particular media form Thus the structure of the book focuses on the local the national and the global desire for communications regardless of the means Annual Report Twentieth Century Fund,1994

Monitoring the News Susan Bridge,1998 Between 1988 and 1992 a technologically sophisticated leadership at the Christian Science Monitor led a costly campaign to diversify beyond the failing newspaper to other media including a cable TV channel This text tells the story of the Monitor and its loss to American journalism Switching Channels Richard E. Caves,Karen Guo,2005-09-15 Media critics invariably disparage the quality of programming produced by the U S television industry But why the industry produces what it does is a question largely unasked It is this question at the crux of American popular culture that Switching Channels explores In the past twenty five years the expansion of cable and satellite systems has transformed television Richard Caves examines the economics of this phenomenon and the nature and logic of the broadcast networks response to the incursion of cable TV especially the shift to inexpensive unscripted game and reality shows and news magazines An explanation of these changes Caves argues requires an understanding of two very different sectors the creative industry which produces programs and the commercial channels which bring them to viewers His book shows how distributors judgment of profitability determines the quality and character of the programs the creative industry produces This determination writes Caves depends on the number and types of viewers that various programs can attract and advertisers willingness to pay for their attention as well as the organization of the networks that package programs the distributors that transmit them and the deals these parties strike with one another The Beat Goes on Tom Rosenstiel, 1994 A Twentieth Century Fund essay Examines the relationship between the American president the press corps that covers him States of Emergency Patricia Rodden Zimmermann, 2000 The Vanishing Vision James Day, 2023-04-28 This spirited history of public television offers an insider's account of its topsy turvy forty year odyssey James Day a founder of San Francisco's KQED and a past president of New York's WNET provides a vivid and often amusing behind the screens history Day tells how a program producer desperate to locate a family willing to live with television cameras for seven months borrowed a dime and a suggestion from a blind date and telephoned the Lounds of Santa Barbara The result was the mesmerizing twelve hour documentary An American Family Day relates how Big Bird and his friends were created to spice up Sesame Street when test runs showed a flagging interest in the program's live action segments And he describes how Frieda Hennock the first woman appointed to the FCC overpowered the resistance of her male colleagues to lay the foundation for public television Day identifies the particular forces that have shaped public television and produced a Byzantine bureaucracy kept on a leash by an untrusting Congress with a fragmented leadership that lacks a clearly defined mission in today's multimedia environment Day calls for a bold rethinking of public television's mission advocating a system that is adequately funded independent of government and capable of countering commercial television's lowest common denominator approach with a full range of substantive programs comedy as well as culture entertainment as well as information This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1995 Consuming Environments Mike Budd, Steve Craig, Clayton M. Steinman, 1999 This is an exploration of how much TV people watch why they watch too much and what they see The authors argue that while people may have good reasons for watching television they seem to be unaware that such habits might be harmful to their environmental health The book examines how advertising and media companies have shaped the commercial content of most television tracing industry motives and operations and their increasing concentration in fewer hands Television, the Public Sphere, and National Identity Monroe E. Price, 1995 Television's role and influence in time in age of globalisation of the media The Daily Planet Patricia Aufderheide, 2000-01-01 The Daily Planet is a long awaited selection of Patricia Aufderheide's most important critical essays updated and organized thematically to demonstrate the breadth of her thinking on media and film public telecommunications policy and contemporary society The result is a pithy and provocative exploration of the culture of daily life under capitalism Here Aufderheide demonstrates criticism that is both activist and analytical She probes the processes that shape our culture by examining diverse subjects including the struggle to create quality children's television programming the meaning of Paul Harvey the evolution of the war film over the past thirty years and the ways journalism is changed by the Internet and other new technologies Throughout Aufderheide foregrounds democratic values displaying the penetrating insights that have made her a leading public intellectual and commentator on contemporary culture
