Quantitative Reasoning for College Graduates Linda R. Sons, 1996-01-01 Current Practices in Quantitative Literacy Rick Gillman, 2006 Presents a wide sampling of efforts being made on campuses across the country to achieve our common goal of having a quantitatively literate citizenry MAA Notes , 1983 Quantitative Reasoning in the Context of Energy and Environment Robert Mayes, James Myers, 2015-01-19 This book provides professional development leaders and teachers with a framework for integrating authentic real world performance tasks into science technology engineering and mathematics STEM classrooms We incorporate elements of problem based learning to engage students around grand challenges in energy and environment place based learning to motivate students by relating the problem to their community and Understanding by Design to ensure that understanding key concepts in STEM is the outcome Our framework has as a basic tenet interdisciplinary STEM approaches to studying real world problems We invited professional learning communities of science and mathematics teachers to bring multiple lenses to the study of these problems including the sciences of biology chemistry earth systems and physics technology through data collection tools and computational science modeling approaches engineering design around how to collect data and mathematics through quantitative reasoning Our goal was to have teachers create opportunities for their students to engage in real world problems impacting their place problems that could be related to STEM grand challenges demonstrating the importance and utility of STEM We want to broaden the participation of students in STEM which both increases the future STEM workforce providing our next generation of scientists technologists engineers and mathematicians as well as producing a STEM literate citizenry that can make informed decisions about grand challenges that will be facing their generation While we provide a specific example of an interdisciplinary STEM module we hope to do more than provide a single fish Rather we hope to teach you how to fish so you can create modules that will excite your students Quantitative Reasoning for College Graduates: a Complement to the Standards. Edited by Linda Sons , 1996 Communicating Uncertainty Sharon M. Friedman, Sharon Dunwoody, Carol L. Rogers, 2012-10-12 Exploring the interactions that swirl around scientific uncertainty and its coverage by the mass media this volume breaks new ground by looking at these issues from three different perspectives that of communication scholars who have studied uncertainty in a number of ways that of science journalists who have covered these issues and that of scientists who have been actively involved in researching uncertain science and talking to reporters about it In particular Communicating Uncertainty examines how well the mass media convey to the public the complexities ambiguities and controversies that are part of scientific uncertainty In addition to its new approach to scientific uncertainty and mass media interactions this book distinguishes itself in the quality of work it assembles by some of the best known science communication scholars in the world This volume continues the exploration of interactions between scientists and journalists that the three coeditors first documented in their highly successful volume Scientists and Journalists Reporting Science as

News which was used for many years as a text in science journalism courses around the world Guidelines for Programs and Departments in Undergraduate Mathematical Sciences ,2003 Mathematics for Social Justice Gizem Karaali,Lily S. Rethinking Map Literacy Ming Xie,Steven Reader,H. L. Vacher,2021-03-29 This book provides two conceptual frameworks for further investigation of map literacy and fills in a gap in map literacy studies addressing the distinction between reference maps and thematic maps and the varying uses of quantitative map literacy QML within and between the two The text offers two conceptual frameworks and uses specific map examples to explore this variability in map reading skills and knowledge with the goal of informing educational pedagogy and practices within geography and related disciplines The book will appeal to cartographers and geographers as a new perspective on a tool of communication they have long employed in their disciplines and will also appeal to those involved in the educational pedagogy of information and data literacy as a way to conceptualize the development of curricula and teaching materials in the increasingly important arena of the interplay between quantitative data and map based graphics The first framework discussed is based on a three set Venn model and addresses the content and relationships of three literacies map literacy quantitative literacy and background information As part of this framework the field of QML is introduced conceptualized and defined as the knowledge concepts skills and facts required to accurately read use interpret and understand the quantitative information embedded in geographic backgrounds The second framework is of a compositional triangle based on 1 the ratio of reference to thematic map purpose and 2 the level of generalization and or distortion within maps In combination these two parameters allow for any type of map to be located within the triangle as a prelude to considering the type and level of quantitative literacy that comes into play during map reading Based on the two frameworks mentioned above the pedagogical tool of word problems is applied to map literacy in an innovative way to explore the variability of map reading skills and knowledge based on specific map examples

Exemplary Programs in Introductory College Mathematics Susan S. Lenker, 1998 This handbook contains a collection of the winning entries in the first INPUT Competition part of the INPUT Innovative Programs Using Technology Project The INPUT Project was designed to improve instruction by recognizing and rewarding college instructors who rethought the mathematical content of their introductory mathematics courses with innovative uses of technology The targeted introductory mathematics courses were developmental mathematics precalculus business mathematics and introductory statistics

Assessing for Learning Peggy L. Maki, 2023-07-03 While there is consensus that institutions need to represent their educational effectiveness through documentation of student learning the higher education community is divided between those who support national standardized tests to compare institutions educational effectiveness and those who believe that valid assessment of student achievement is based on assessing the work that students produce along and at the end of their educational journeys This book espouses the latter philosophy what Peggy Maki sees as an integrated and authentic approach to providing evidence of student learning based on the work that students produce along the chronology of their learning She believes that assessment needs to be humanized as opposed to standardized to take into account the demographics of institutions as students do not all start at the same place in their learning Students also need the tools to assess their own progress In addition to updating and expanding the contents of her first edition to reflect changes in assessment practices and developments over the last seven years such as the development of technology enabled assessment methods and the national need for institutions to demonstrate that they are using results to improve student learning Maki focuses on ways to deepen program and institution level assessment within the context of collective inquiry about student learning Recognizing that assessment is not initially a linear start up process or even necessarily sequential and recognizing that institutions develop processes appropriate for their mission and culture this book does not take a prescriptive or formulaic approach to building this commitment What it does present is a framework with examples of processes and strategies to assist faculty staff administrators and campus leaders to develop a sustainable and shared core institutional process that deepens inquiry into what and how students learn to identify and improve patterns of weakness that inhibit learning This book is designed to assist colleges and universities build a sustainable commitment to assessing student learning at both the institution and program levels It provides the tools for collective inquiry among faculty staff administrators and students to develop evidence of students abilities to integrate apply and transfer learning as well as to construct their own meaning Each chapter also concludes with 1 an Additional Resources section that includes references to meta sites with further resources so users can pursue particular issues in greater depth and detail and 2 worksheets guides and exercises designed to build collaborative ownership of assessment The second edition now covers Strategies to connect students to an institution s or a program s assessment commitment Description of the components of a comprehensive institutional commitment that engages the institution educators and students all as learners Expanded coverage of direct and indirect assessment methods including technology enabled methods that engage students in the process New case studies and campus examples covering undergraduate graduate education and the co curriculum New chapter with case studies that presents a framework for a backward designed problem based assessment process anchored in answering open ended research or study questions that lead to improving pedagogy and educational practices Integration of developments across professional scholarly and accrediting bodies and disciplinary organizations Descriptions and illustrations of assessment management systems Additional examples exercises guides and worksheets that align with new content
