Radio The Media:

Sound Business Michael Stamm, 2011-05-03 American newspapers have faced competition from new media for over ninety years Today digital media challenge the printed word In the 1920s broadcast radio was the threatening upstart At the time newspaper publishers of all sizes turned threat into opportunity by establishing their own stations Many such as the Chicago Tribune s WGN are still in operation By 1940 newspapers owned 30 percent of America s radio stations This new type of enterprise the multimedia corporation troubled those who feared its power to control the flow of news and information In Sound Business historian Michael Stamm traces how these corporations and their critics reshaped the ways Americans received the news Stamm is attuned to a neglected aspect of U S media history the role newspaper owners played in communications from the dawn of radio to the rise of television Drawing on a wide array of primary sources he recounts the controversies surrounding joint newspaper and radio operations These companies capitalized on synergies between print and broadcast production As their advertising revenue grew so did concern over their concentrated influence Federal policymakers especially during the New Deal responded to widespread concerns about the consequences of media consolidation by seeking to limit and even ban cross ownership The debates between corporations policymakers and critics over how to regulate these new kinds of media businesses ultimately structured the channels of information distribution in the United States and determined who would control the institutions undergirding American society and politics Sound Business is a timely examination of the connections between media ownership content and distribution one that both expands our understanding of mid twentieth century America and offers lessons for the digital age

Media at War Gwenyth L. Jackaway, 1995-11-20 Fought when radio was first introduced the Press Radio war was an attempt on the part of print journalists to block the emergence of radio news For nearly a decade the newspapers of America fought to keep broadcast journalism off the air exerting various forms of economic regulatory and legal pressure against new competitors This study traces the stages and forms of institutional self defense utilized by the press Far more than mere battles to protect profits media wars are fights to preserve the institutional power that derives from controlling the channels of communication

Rainforest Radio Georgia Ennis, 2025-04-22 Napo Kichwa communities in the Upper Ecuadorian Amazon find themselves doubly marginalized by settler colonialism and well intentioned language revitalization projects In Rainforest Radio Georgia C Ennis provides a comprehensive ethnographic exploration of Amazonian Kichwa community media offering a unique look at how Indigenous broadcast and performance media facilitate linguistic and cultural reclamation in the Ecuadorian Amazon This work offers a critical analysis of how standardized language revitalization efforts like the imposition of Unified Kichwa can inadvertently perpetuate linguistic oppression Ennis follows producers performers and consumers to understand the role of media in language reclamation Through extensive fieldwork she provides vivid portrayals of community efforts to sustain the language and cultural practices of their elders amid environmental and social upheaval Meticulously researched and beautifully written Rainforest Radio is an essential work for anthropologists linguists and social scientists interested in language revitalization Indigenous media and environmental justice This book showcases the transformative potential of community driven media initiatives highlighting the innovative responses of Napo Kichwa activists to the unique challenges they face It serves as a powerful model for those working on similar issues worldwide demonstrating the critical role of community media in language reclamation and cultural sustainability Bob Marley and Media Mike
