Reflections on Africa Grace L. Chavis, 1975 Reflections in Africa Harold F. Miller, 2018 In this volume of eclectic reflections drawn from a fifty year sojourn on the African continent Harold F Miller examines the African liberation century ecumenical movements paradigms of church and state examples of and models for peace and reconciliation the roles of nongovernmental organizations in Africa and global ethics These writings were produced over a number of decades each representing a subjective temporal vantage point They offer glimpses from a lifetime of engagement on a lively complex continent during a momentous century From Divided Pasts to Cohesive Futures Hiroyuki Hino, Arnim Langer, John Lonsdale, Frances Stewart, 2019 Today the cohesion of multi ethnic societies is at risk across the globe African countries have been facing this challenge in the sixty years since independence They continue to do so Historical inequalities and social division undermine cohesion and sow seeds of instability Can Africa hope to build a future where ethnic and other groups can live at peace with each other This book rests on the assumption that with difficulty they can It draws together historians economists and political scientists each an authority on Africa to look back at the continent's divided histories to understand where Africans stand now and to reflect on how they might now work towards a more trusting society We bring conceptual clarity to bear on the often fuzzy processes and contexts Our case studies statistical expositions theoretical reflections and conceptual definitions apply beyond Africa to more developed countries including in Europe and North America Provided by publisher Reflections on Africa's Place in the World Laurence Caromba, Y Abba Omar, 2022 This volume of essays represents a decade of scholarship from the Mapungubwe Institute for Strategic Reflection MISTRA on the question African scholars have long posed Where to for Africa in the world The essays in this book cumulatively constitute what could be termed pragmatic pan Africanism a view of international relations that combines a realistic understanding of power politics with a commitment to a progressive Africa and its integration through continental institutions The authors hold diverse views and they do not agree on all foreign policy issues Nevertheless their work as a whole offers a consistent and overarching vision of Africa and its place in the world Reflections on Africa and Its Future Julius K. This book contains different reflections on leadership and institutions in Africa Drawing from different ideological and methodological orientations the book highlights how leadership and institutions have shaped and continue to shape the trajectory of Africa's political and economic development The book explores different epochs in Africa's history from the era of colonialism to the period of nationalist movements and up to post colonial Africa Essays in the volume engage with major actors and important institutions that defined each era By presenting various reflections and representations of leadership and institutions in Africa this book attempts to make the connection between leadership and institutions on the one hand and between these variables and Africa's development on the other Similar to most studies on Africa's political economy the book considers the role of external forces whether operationalized through direct interventions as was the case during the colonial era or through subtle imposition of policies as has been the new model in post colonial times Drawing from these lenses issues around Africa's dependency on external interventions neo colonialism neoliberalism and disregard for Africa's culture are explored and contextualized within the framework of leadership and institutions
