The Rock-Art of Eastern North America Carol Diaz-Granados,James R. Duncan,2004-11-28 Showcases the wealth of new research on sacred imagery found in twelve states and four Canadian provinces In archaeology rock art any long lasting marking made on a natural surface is similar to material culture pottery and tools because it provides a record of human activity and ideology at that site Petroglyphs pictographs and dendroglyphs tree carvings have been discovered and recorded throughout the eastern woodlands of North America on boulders bluffs and trees in caves and in rock shelters These cultural remnants scattered on the landscape can tell us much about the belief systems of the inhabitants that left them behind The Rock Art of Eastern North America brings together 20 papers from recent research at sites in eastern North America where humidity and the actions of weather including acid rain can be very damaging over time Contributors to this volume range from professional archaeologists and art historians to avocational archaeologists including a surgeon a lawyer two photographers and an aerospace engineer They present information drawings and photographs of sites ranging from the Seven Sacred Stones in Iowa to the Bald Friar Petroglyphs of Maryland and from the Lincoln Rise Site in Tennessee to the Nisula Site in Quebec Discussions of the significance of artist gender the relationship of rock art to mortuary caves and the suggestive link to the peopling of the continent are particularly notable contributions Discussions include the history ethnography recording methods dating and analysis of the subject sites and integrate these with the known archaeological data

Navajo and the Animal People Steve Pavlik, William B Tsosie, 2014-07-01 This text examines the traditional Navajo relationship to the natural world Specifically how the tribe once related to the Animal People and particularly a category of animals which they collectively referred to as the naatl eetsoh the ones who hunt These animals like Native Americans were once viewed as impediments to progress requiring extermination

Rocks in Motion Pawe? L. Polkowski, 2024-08-31 First fully illustrated presentation of a large but generally little known assemblage of petroglyphic rock art from the Western Desert of Egypt Rock art in Dakhleh was produced for perhaps as long as 10 millennia resulting in the formation of hundreds of sites displaying thousands of images In some places petroglyphs form a true melting pot of iconographic creations elsewhere only isolated depictions appear on rock surfaces Various rock art traditions from prehistoric through pharaonic Graeco Roman and mediaeval have all added to a tremendous variety of petroglyphs their formal traits and subject matter This book is the first ever monograph on Dakhleh Oasis rock art providing both an introduction to the versatile topic as well as an overview of the current state of research It is designed as a collection of essays that deal with specific aspects of the research The reader is offered here not only old and new documentation much of it previously unpublished but also a great deal of innovative interpretation All chapters although devoted to different case studies revolve around an all encompassing concept of landscape of motion It is argued here that rock art regardless of its date of origin was and is always involved in certain dynamic contexts In Dakhleh the majority of petroglyphs especially during historical periods were produced in spatial contexts of paths and routes and thus by people on the move It is argued here that various kinds of movement were often a significant factor contributing to the meaning and function of the images The intention of this book is to explore and unveil such contexts which may prove somewhat elusive if we focus our analyses exclusively on the representational aspects of rock art Such a type of integration of rock art landscape and motion is the major aim of this work and has hopefully been achieved by merging perspectives and concepts derived from Egyptology Anthropology and other social sciences

Glyphs and Gallows Peter Wilton Johnson, 1999 In 1995 Peter Johnson went looking for a rare set of petroglyphs located on the outer coast of Vancouver Island near an abandoned whaling village Encouraged by archival research that yielded court records 90 year old correspondence and a tantalizing 1926 newspaper article Peter sought to tie these glyphs to the 1869 wreck of the trading barque John Bright and the bizarre colonial trial that followed He found more questions than answers Why for example were two Nuuchahmuls men so readily hung from a gallows erected in front of their village at Hesquiat And how did this event relate to the rock carvings that Peter knew existed in a cove many miles south along the life saving West Coast Trail by the Graveyard of the Pacific This story explores the significance of particular petroglyphs colonial injustice and the European trading mentality on the west coast at the time of contact Peter interweaves a personal journal with historical narrative in order to produce a lively account of the relationship between our coastal history and a little known Aboriginal art form Rock Art Studies: News of the World VI Paul Bahn,Natalie Franklin,Matthias Strecker,2021-09-16 Like previous series entries this volume covers rock art research and management all over the world over a 5 year period in this case 2015 19 Contributions once again show the wide variety of approaches that have been taken in different parts of the world and reflect the expansion and diversification of perspectives and research questions Warrior Art of Wyoming's Green River Basin James D. Keyser,2005
