Scarred City:

Vigilantes Kevin Grant, 2020-01-03 For many people the cinematic vigilante has been shaped by Charles Bronson's character in Death Wish and its sequels. But screen vigilantes have taken many guises from Old West lynch mobs and rogue police officers to rape avengers and military trained equalizers. This book recounts the varied representations of such characters in films like The Birth of a Nation which celebrated the violence of the Ku Klux Klan and Taxi Driver Falling Down and You Were Never Really Here in which the vigilante impulse was symptomatic of mental instability. Also considered is the extent to which fictional vigilantism functions as social commentary and to what degree it is simply stoking popular fears.

City Under Siege Mike Wright, 2002-03-04 Richmond became the capital of the Confederacy when Virginia joined the Southern cause marking the city as a prime target for the Union army. General McClellan was the first Union leader to lay siege to Richmond and that was just the beginning. The attractive and genteel city of Richmond would be transformed into a refugee camp, a scene of riots and a city-sized hospital before the war was over. Making use of diaries, letters and newspaper accounts from the era, Wright brings readers face to face with the men and women who fought for the city, endured starvation, observed Lee's defeats and Grant's progress and witnessed the Confederacy's last days.

City Limits Stephanie Schwerter, 2022-01-13 Belfast, Beirut and Berlin are notorious for their internal boundaries and borders. As symbols for political disunion, the three cities have inspired scriptwriters and directors from diverse cultural backgrounds. Despite their different histories, they share a wide range of features central to divided cities. In each city, particular territories take on specific symbolic and psychological meanings. Following a comparative approach, this book concentrates on the cinematographic representations of Belfast, Beirut and Berlin. Filmmakers are in constant search of new ways in order to engage with urban division. Making use of a variety of genres reaching from thriller to comedy, they explore the three cities' internal and external borders as well as the psychological boundaries existing between citizens belonging to different communities. Among the characters featuring in films set in Belfast, Berlin and Beirut, we may count dangerous gunmen, prisoners, wives, soldiers and snipers, but also comic Stasi members, punk aficionados and fake nuns. The various characters contribute to the creation of a multifaceted image of city limits in troubled times.

City Women Eleanor Hubbard, 2012-03-01 City Women is a major new study of the lives of ordinary women in sixteenth and seventeenth century London. Drawing on thousands of pages of Londoners' depositions for the consistory court, it focuses on the challenges that preoccupied London women as they strove for survival and preferment in the burgeoning metropolis. Balancing new demographic data with vivid case studies, Eleanor Hubbard explores the advantages and dangers that the city had to offer from women's first arrival in London as migrant maidservants through the vicissitudes of marriage, widowhood and old age. In early modern London, women's opportunities were tightly restricted. Nonetheless, before 1640 the city's unique demographic circumstances provided unusual scope for marital advancement and both maids and widows were quick to take advantage of this Similarly moments of opportunity emerged when the powerful sexual anxieties that associated women's speech and mobility with loose behaviour came into conflict with even more powerful anxieties about the economic stability of households and communities As neighbours and magistrates sought to reconcile their competing priorities in cases of illegitimate pregnancy marital disputes working wives remarrying widows and more women were able to exploit the resulting uncertainty to pursue their own ends By paying close attention to the aspirations and preoccupations of London women themselves their daily struggles small triumphs and domestic tragedies City Women provides a valuable new perspective on the importance and complexity of women's roles in the growing capital and on the pragmatic nature of early modern English society as a whole

The Emergence of a Modern City Henriette Steiner, 2016-03-23 This book is an exploration of how urban life in Copenhagen in the period known as the Golden Age c 1800 to 1850 was experienced and structured socially institutionally and architecturally It draws on a broad historical source material spanning urban anecdotes biography philosophy literature and visual culture to do so The book argues that Copenhagen emerged as a modern city at this time despite the fact that the Golden Age never witnessed the appearance of the main characteristics of the modernisation of cities associated with industrialisation such as street lighting sewer systems and railroads The book outlines the historical and topographical context of Copenhagen in the Golden Age with a special focus on the works of the most prominent architect of the period C F Hansen The characterisation of the city is complemented by investigations into writings of three citizens the philosopher Søren Kierkegaard the novelist Thomasine Gyllembourg and the criminal Ole Kollerod who all take an interest in the city's institutional and urban structures as well as their own place in it From these different sources a picture is painted of urban life and thought at a time when the city began to take on characteristics of ambiguity and alienation in European thinking while at the same time the city itself retained some pre-modern motifs of a symbolic order This transformation is set in a larger process of cultural re-orientation from traditional Baroque culture to what might be termed Romantic culture The book reconsiders the significance of this transformation for the emergent order of the modern European city in the nineteenth century and thus of the very foundation on which our own urban culture rests

Jerusalem Past and Present, the City of Undying Memories Gaius Glenn Atkins, 1918 Busy Blood D.F. Lewis, 2012-01-15 This is the crooked surreal and dark house that Stuart Hughes and D F Lewis built This is a lonely collection of shadow-filled rooms and twisted passageways where no reality is certain and where certainty shifts and distorts This is a place of grotesque free sex of demon armies and clinics in which exorcism is by surgery This is where you will find quiet tumours and the mansion with two bedsits and where you will be meticulously prepared for madness This is Busy Blood Stuart Hughes has a natural ability a determination and raw talent that is undeniable Conrad Williams In one short page Lewis manages to unsettle in a way that a ream of small press magazines could never do in a lifetime of trying Stygian Articles Sarajevo Fran Markowitz, 2024-03-18 This fascinating urban anthropological analysis of Sarajevo and its cultural complexities examines contemporary issues of social divisiveness pluralism and intergroup dynamics in the context of national identity and state formation Rather than seeing Bosnia Herzegovina as a volatile postsocialist society the book presents its capital city as a vibrant yet wounded center of multicultural diversity where citizens live in mutual recognition of difference while asserting a lifestyle that transcends boundaries of ethnicity and religion It further illuminates how Sarajevans negotiate group identity in the tumultuous context of history authoritarian rule and interactions with the built environment and one another As she navigates the city Fran Markowitz shares narratives of local citizenry played out against the larger dramas of nation and state building She shows how Sarajevans national identities have been forged in the crucible of power culture language and politics Sarajevo A Bosnian Kaleidoscope acknowledges this Central European city s dramatic survival from the ravages of civil war as it advances into the present day global arena

The City in the City Amy Thomas, 2023-12-26 An exploration of the dramatic transformation of London s financial district after 1945 viewed at four spatial scales city street facade interior In The City in the City Amy Thomas offers the first in depth architectural and urban history of London s financial district the City of London from the period of rebuilding after World War II to the explosive climax of financial deregulation in the 1980s and its long aftermath Thomas examines abstract financial ideas political ideology and invisible markets as concrete realities working on four spatial scales city street facade and interior the book explores the grand plans hidden alleys neo Georgian elevations and sweaty dealing floors that have made the financial center work Moving from politics to sociology institutions to bodies development plans to office desks Thomas unravels the rich entanglements between the structure of the UK s financial system and the structure of the environment in which it operates Despite its physical and political centrality this period of the City s architectural history occupies an academic lacuna Longstanding prejudices about developer led architecture and the real estate industry have obscured the postwar City s relevance The book shows how as currents of local government reform nation building and globalization swept across Britain the City became an ideological battleground for debates between politicians and financial institutions real estate developers and architects preservationists and so called proactive planners throughout the latter half of the century The City of London is a place steeped in rich cultural and architectural heritage of immense national significance yet it is also a highly privileged citadel at the core of global financial networks The City in the City is both a critique and a celebration of this unique and complex place
