Scent Of Ink The Roy And Marilyn Papp Collection Of Chinese Painting:

Scent of Ink Ju-hsi Chou, Roy Papp, Marilyn Papp, 1994 As the Collection of Roy and Marilyn Papp grows to includes more exemplary works this catalogue is a natural continuation Dimensions of Originality Katharine P Burnett, 2013-03-13 This book investigates the issue of conceptual originality in art criticism of the seventeenth century a period in which China dynamically reinvented itself In art criticism the term which was called upon to indicate conceptual originality more than any other was qi literally different but secondarily odd like a number and by extension the novel and extraordinary This work finds that originality expressed through visual difference was a paradigmatic concern of both artists and critics Burnett speculates on why many have dismissed originality as a possible traditional Chinese value and the ramifications this has had on art historical understanding She further demonstrates that a study of individual key terms can reveal social and cultural values and provides a linear history of the increase in critical use of qi as originality from the fifth through the seventeenth centuries exploring what originality looks like in artworks by members of the gentry elite and commoner classes and explains how the value lost its luster at the end of the seventeenth century Children in Chinese Art Ann Barrott

Wicks, 2002-02-28 Depictions of children have had a prominent place in Chinese art since the Song period 960 1279 Yet one would be hard pressed to find any significant discussion of children in art in the historical documents of imperial China or contemporary scholarship on Chinese art Children in Chinese Art brings to the forefront themes and motifs that have crossed social boundaries for centuries but have been overlooked in scholarly treatises In this volume experts in the fields of art religion literature and history introduce and elucidate many of the issues surrounding child imagery in China including its use for didactic reinforcement of social values as well as the amuletic function of these works The introduction provides a thought provoking overview of the history of depictions of children exploring both stylistic development and the emergence of specific themes In an insightful essay China specialists combine expertise in literature and painting to propose that the focus on children in both genres during the Song is an indication of a truly humane society Skillful use of visual and textual sources from the Ming 1368 1644 and Qing 1644 1911 period explains children s games and the meaning of depictions of boys at play Gender issues are examined in an intriguing look at mothers and children in woodblock illustrations to Ming versions of the classical text Lie ni juan Depictions of the childhood of saints and sages from murals and commemorative tablets in ancient temples are considered The volume concludes with two highly original essays on child protectors and destroyers in Chinese folk religion and family portraits and their scarcity in China before the nineteenth century Contributors Ellen B Avril Catherine Barnhart Richard Barnhart Terese Tse Bartholomew Julia K Murray Ann Waltner Ann Barrott Wicks

Newsletter, East Asian Art and Archaeology, 1994 Drawing Boundaries Anita Chung, 2004-01-01 Beginning with a concise and well illustrated history of the evolution of the tradition this new study reveals how these images were deployed in the Manchu Qing imperial court to define political social or cultural boundaries Characterized by grand conception and regal splendor the paintings served to enhance the imperial authority of rulers and to a segment of the elite to advertise social status

Tradition and Transformation Judith G. Smith, 2005 Tradition and Transformation commemorates Chu Tsing Li s achievements as an educator and scholar with essays by friends and former students marking his long teaching career at the University of Kansas and in particular his contribution to the field of Asian studies The topics of the essays range from early Chinese art history to contemporary Chinese art When Chu tsing Li arrived at the University of Kansas in 1966 it was with a mission to establish the University as the leader in the Midwest and eventually one of the important centers in the United States for the study of Asian art By the end of his teaching career in 1990 the program in Asian art had produced specialists in Chinese Japanese and Korean art and had trained and inspired numerous doctoral students many of whom have gone on to become established scholars in their own right In 1978 Dr Li became the first Judith Harris Murphy Distinguished Professor of Art History at the University of Kansas
