Brain Sense Faith Hickman Brynie, 2009 A fascinating new book that helps us make sense of our senses

A Sense of Place Annie Davy, 2019-02-07 Tried and tested accessible strategies that support the wellbeing and learning journey of children through mindfulness with a focus on learning outdoors and connecting with the world Being outside and connecting with nature is key to young children's learning and wellbeing especially in a busy fast changing and digitalised world Outdoors children can more easily connect to their bodies and learn about themselves and others and how to be in the world They use their senses to explore understand and become mindful of the earth and the people around them But how can Early Years practitioners best support young children as they engage with nature while also passing on the values about the future of the planet A Sense of Place is an easily accessible guide that will make outdoor learning more interesting and fun while also supporting children's development of resilience and resourcefulness so that they can survive and thrive in the world as they grow The Aroma of Righteousness Deborah A. Green, 2011 Studies in Jewish life and literature in Palestine in the late Roman and early Byzantine periods Uses the history and material culture of perfume and incense as a lens to view daily activities Provided by publisher Sensing Sacred Jennifer

Baldwin, 2016-08-30 Sensing Sacred is an edited volume that explores the critical intersection of religion and body through the religious lens of practical theology with an emphasis on sensation as the embodied means in which human beings know themselves others and the divine in the world The manuscript argues that all human interaction and practice including religious praxis engages body through at least one of the human senses touch smell hearing taste sight kinestics proprioception Unfortunately body and more specifically and ironically sensation is eclipsed in contemporary academic scholarship that is inherently bent toward the realm of theory and ideas This is unfortunate because it neglects bodies physical or communal as the repository and generator of culturally conditioned ideas and theory It is ironic because all knowledge transmission minimally requires several senses including sight touch and hearing Sensing Sacred is organized into two parts The first section devotes a chapter to each human sense as an avenue of accessing religious experience while the second section explores religious practices as they specifically focus on one or more senses The overarching aim of the volume is to explicitly highlight each sense and utilize the theoretical lenses of practical theology to bring to vivid life the connections between essential sensation and religious thinking and practice The Ephemeral History of Perfume Holly

Dugan, 2011-11-01 In contrast to the other senses smell has long been thought of as too elusive too fleeting for traditional historical study Holly Dugan disagrees arguing that there are rich accounts documenting how men and women produced consumed and represented perfumes and their ephemeral effects She delves deeply into the cultural archive of olfaction to explore what a sense of smell reveals about everyday life in early modern England In this book Dugan focuses on six important scents incense rose sassafras rosemary ambergris and jasmine She links these smells to the unique spaces they inhabited churches courts contact zones plague ridden households luxury markets and pleasure gardens and the objects used to dispense them This original approach provides a rare opportunity to study how early modern men and women negotiated the environment in their everyday lives and the importance of smell to their daily actions Dugan defines perfume broadly to include spices flowers herbs animal parts trees resins and other ingredients used to produce artificial scents smokes fumes airs balms powders and liquids In researching these Renaissance aromas Dugan uncovers the extraordinary ways now largely lost that people at the time spoke and wrote about smell objects ambered civited expired fetored halited resented and smeeked or were described as breathful embathed endulced gracious halited incensial odorant pulvil redolent and suffite A unique contribution to early modern studies The Ephemeral History of Perfume is an unparalleled study of olfaction in the Renaissance a period in which new scents and important cultural theories about smell were developed Dugan's inspired analysis of a wide range of underexplored sources makes available to scholars a remarkable wealth of information on the
