The Musical Gift Jim Sykes, 2018-08-31 The Musical Gift tells Sri Lanka's music history as a story of giving between humans and nonhumans and between populations defined by difference Author Jim Sykes argues that in the recent past the genres we recognize today as Sri Lanka's esteemed traditional musics were not originally about ethnic or religious identity but were gifts to gods and people intended to foster protection and or healing Noting that the currently assumed link between music and identity helped produce the narratives of ethnic difference that drove Sri Lanka's civil war 1983 2009 Sykes argues that the promotion of connected music histories has a role to play in post war reconciliation. The Musical Gift includes a study of how NGOs used music to promote reconciliation in Sri Lanka and it contains a theorization of the relations between musical gifts and commodities. Eschewing a binary between the gift and identity Sykes claims the world's music history is largely a story of entanglement between both paradigms. Drawing on fieldwork conducted widely across Sri Lanka over a span of eleven years including the first study of Sinhala Buddhist drumming in English and the first ethnography of music making in the former warzones of the north and east this book brings anthropology s canonic literature on the gift into music studies while drawing on anthropology s recent ontological turn and the new materialism in religious studies.

Gifts and Interests Antoon Vandevelde, 2000 According to a common understanding of economics economists attempt to understand and explain societal reality in the light of individual self interest For them a gift is no exception to this except for the slight and misleading veil of altruism which covers a purely egoistic motivation On the other hand theologians philosophers and ethicists use a more normative concept of man Man realises his best potential through deeds of selfless sacrifice that remain unknown to everyone In reality however people are either entirely equistic nor altruistic Marcel Mauss model of the gift is interesting because it seems to escape the classical or rather modern egoism altruism dichotomy Gifts are not primarily motivated by the well being of myself or the other but rather by the desire to bring about or maintain a certain kind of social relation between giver and receiver Altruistic as well as egoistic motivations are an integral part of that relation The role of gifts in the constitution of social relations and social cohesion explains why most kinds of gifts are reciprocal and even obligatory In this book anthropologists sociologists and economists as well as philosophers focus on the question of the relevance of Mauss work on the gift for the understanding of actual social phenomena Merchant Alexandra Grunberg, 2024-08-27 A post apocalyptic retelling of William Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice Who will survive when the world is destroyed Can stories from the distant past teach us how to change a dismal present Merchant shifts perspective between three survivors of a flooded world as they try to navigate the threat of mass starvation Jessica a patrilineal Jew from Venice named after the Italian city but located on the mountain K2 who has memorized the complete works of Shakespeare Cem an orphan of Venice and Shinobu an advisor to the empress Ama in Fuji Ama has been gifting
