Sea Kings Daughter A Russian Legend:

The Sea King's Daughter, 1997 A talented musician from Novgorod plays so well that the Sea King wants him to marry one of his daughters

The Sea King's Daughter Aaron Shepard, 2017-08-06 Sadko the musician loved his city of Novgorod the richest and most free in all Russia With its great feasts its white stone churches its merchant visitors from many lands Sadko felt there was no better place to be Yet he was lonely too for the rich young ladies who danced to his music would never favor anyone so poor One night he takes his twelve string gusli and goes alone to play by the River Volkhov Suddenly from the water rises the Sea King who invites the astonished musician to play at his underwater palace But how will Sadko get there And how will he get back And will he want to return at all when he meets the Sea King's lovely daughter One of the most popular legends of Russia Sadko's story is found in medieval epic ballads as well as in a popular opera by Rimsky Korsakov It is retold here in elegant prose complemented by the entrancing illustrations of a modern Russian master
