The Late Victorian Navy Roger Parkinson, 2008 A reappraisal of the late Victorian Navy the so called Dark Ages showing how the period was crucial to the emergence of new technology defined by steel and electricity In purely naval terms the period from 1889 to 1906 is often referred to and indeed passed over as the pre Dreadnought era merely a prelude to the lead up to the First World War and thus of relatively little importance it has therefore received little consideration from historians a gap which this book remedies by reviewing the late Victorian Navy from a radically new perspective It starts with the Great Near East crisis of 1878 and shows how its aftermath in the Carnarvon Commission and its evidence produced a profound shift in strategic thinking culminating in the Naval Defence Act of 1889 this evidence from the ship owners provides the definitive explanation of why the Victorian Navy gave up on convoy as the primary means of trade protection in wartime a fundamental question at the time The book also overturns many assumptions about the era especially the perception that the navy was weak and clearly shows that the 1870s and early 1880s brought in crucial technological developments that made the Dreadnought possible

The Decline of European Naval Forces Jeremy Stohs, 2018-04-15 The Decline of European Naval Forces aims to provide insight into the evolution of Europe's naval forces since the end of the Cold War To illuminate the drastic changes many European navies have undergone over the last twenty five years Jeremy Stohs analyzes the defense policies and naval strategies of eleven European states as well as the evolution deployment and capabilities of their respective naval forces In these case studies the development of Europe's most important naval forces is assessed per the respective strategic framework in which they have operated over the past two decades Stohs describes not only the general composition of each force but also the range of their capabilities and their important technical features His study shows that since the end of the Cold War all but a few European navies have significantly decreased in size and thus have ceded important capabilities along the way Based on the understanding of sea power as a prerequisite for political influence and economic health the consequences of the geopolitical shift toward the Asian Pacific region and most importantly the general decline of Europe's traditional naval capabilities the author concludes that the ability of European states to influence events near and abroad by means of their naval forces has atrophied and will continue to be called into question in the future
