Australia is a high quality reference on significant research in Australian social sciences The book is divided into three main sections covering the central areas of the social sciences economics political science and sociology Each section examines the significant research in the field placing it within the context of broader debates about the nature of the social sciences and the ways in which institutional changes have shaped how they are defined taught and researched Research Handbook on Education Privatization and Marketization Adrián Zancajo, Clara Fontdevila, Huriya Jabbar, Antoni Verger, 2025-02-12 This Research Handbook analyses global trends within education privatization and marketization two of the most debated topics in contemporary education policy An international array of expert contributors present illuminating case studies from across Asia Europe North America and South America Australia's Bid For The Atomic Bomb Reynolds, Wayne, 1997-02-11 This very important work is a fundamental rewriting of Australian history from 1943 to 1968 It argues that after World War II Australian defence policy was premised on Joint nuclear weapons development with the United Kingdom and that while this endeavour failed it shaped domestic and foreign policy until the end of the 1950s Nuclear weapons have traditionally been seen as American and British concerns and various official histories have held that the development of rockets and atomic weapon testing were essentially British exercises But author Wayne Reynolds reveals an entirely new perspective on Australia's role in these events Australia's Bid for the Atomic Bomb examines the implications of this for major social political and security issues and developments in Australia's recent history This work will arouse considerable media interest and will appeal to anyone interested in Australia's political and military history Looking-Glass Wars: Spies on British Screens since 1960 Alan Burton, 2018-01-31 Looking Glass Wars Spies on British Screens since 1960 is a detailed historical and critical overview of espionage in British film and television in the important period since 1960 From that date the British spy screen was transformed under the influence of the tremendous success of James Bond in the cinema the spy thriller and of the new style spy writing of John le Carr and Len Deighton the espionage story In the 1960s there developed a popular cycle of spy thrillers in the cinema and on television The new study looks in detail at the cycle which in previous work has been largely neglected in favour of the James Bond films The study also brings new attention to espionage on British television and popular secret agent series such as Spy Trap Quiller and The Sandbaggers It also gives attention to the more realistic representation of spying in the film and television adaptations of le Carr and Deighton and other dramas with a more serious intent In addition there is wholly original attention given to nostalgic spy fictions on screen adaptations of classic stories of espionage which were popular in the late 1970s and through the 1980s and to historical spy fiction dramas which treated real cases of espionage and their characters most notably the notorious Cambridge Spies Detailed attention is also given to the secret state thriller a cycle of paranoid screen dramas in the 1980s which portrayed the intelligence services in a conspiratorial light best understood as a reaction to excessive official secrecy and anxieties about an unregulated security service The study is brought up to date with an examination of screen espionage in Britain since the end of the Cold War The approach is empirical and historical The study examines the production and reception literary and historical contexts of the films and dramas It is the first detailed overview of the British spy screen in its crucial period since the 1960s and provides fresh attention to spy films series and serials never previously considered Australian Artists in the Contemporary Museum Dr Jennifer Barrett, Dr Jacqueline Millner, 2014-05-28 In Australia the artist's engagement with the museum is traditionally regarded as having an important role in the colonial project but as times have changed the post colonial viewpoint has come to the fore The authors of Australian Artists and the Museum propose that the artist's engagement has moved from politically informed critique taking place in museums of fine art towards a critique of the creation of knowledge taking place in non art museums assuming new forms including the artist acting as curator art interventions that highlight the use of taxonomic modes of display and categorization and the engagement with the aesthetics of collections to suggest different readings of objects and artefacts Australian National Cinema Tom O'Regan, 2005-08-10 Situates Australian cinema in its historical and cultural perspective offering detailed critiques of key films from 1970 onwards and using them to illustrate the recent theories on the cinema industries Finding Home Erik Peacock, 2012-01-27 At four years of age Erik emigrated from Britain to the island State of Tasmania with his non conforming family After living in the woods the family continued to home educate helping to pioneer the home education movement in Australia What followed was a long personal journey to find a place in a society undergoing rapid change Intense religious experiences and hard edged political activism play out against a backdrop of ongoing conflict over the preservation and destruction of wilderness in one of the world's special places This gives a unique insider perspective on alternative education nature and spirituality social activism and national identity Often humorous sometimes tragic this is a very personal story of engaging with public life about finding the divine in odd places about social conflict and about finding in the end those things that hold us together It is about the strange ways that love finds us It is a story of finding home
