Overexploitation of natural resources is often associated with poverty among local populations A multi disciplinary team studied artisanal fishers along the Kenyan coast on the Indian Ocean The main focus of the research was on income diversification of fishers the pressure on marine resources and the relation between the two Income diversification did not reduce the pressure on the marine environment Rather indications are that many part time fishers are entering the profession Moreover fishers with alternative employment stayed in shore and used damaging gear more often Policies to stimulate employment opportunities for coastal communities cannot be expected to lessen the pressure on marine resources and need to be planned carefully in terms of industry location labour requirements and degree of coastal pollution Inside Poverty and Development in Africa Marcel Rutten, André Leliveld, Dick Foeken, 2008-10-15 When discussing development issues in Africa it is not sufficient to simply stress the ubiquity of failure malnutrition disease predatory states and war one also has to recognize that important aspects in the lives of millions of ordinary people have been transformed over the last five decades The contributions in this book are rooted in extensive empirical research at local regional and or national level in different African countries Chad Ethiopia Kenya Lesotho South Africa and Uganda while some take a pan African view All however offer insight from different analytical perspectives into the heterogeneity of poverty and development processes in Sub Saharan Africa and confront the ideas concepts and assumptions that lie behind pro poor policies The volume also encourages policy makers to choose realistic policy prescriptions in an attempt to move people out of poverty
