A Dauntless Viking William Hale, 1905 The Viking's Woman Heather Graham, 2010-09-22 Her wild spirit made him crave her. Her firebrand hair blazed as glorious as a sunrise. Her long limbs promised the sweet mysteries of the night. Rhiannon, King Alfred's favorite niece, was enraged when her uncle sealed an alliance of war by pledging her to Eric, the towering golden-haired prince whose blue eyes penetrated her with a glacial stare. But the more she fought the marriage, the more she became inflamed by the fire that lay beneath his Viking ice. His passion pierced her heart. His broad shoulders as hard as the steel of his sword. Eric bowed to no man. The only battle he feared losing was with Rhiannon. For she had reached into the savage recesses of his heart. No campaign on the field, no treason from within would he fight as fiercely or with such desire as the war he waged to possess what was his.

Deep Cosmopolis Adam K. Webb, 2015-05-15 Too often observers of globalization take for granted that the common ground across cultures is a thin layer of consumerism and perhaps human rights If so then anything deeper and more traditional would be placebound and probably destined for the dustbin of history But must this be so Must we assume as both liberals and traditionalists now tend to do that one cannot be a cosmopolitan and take traditions seriously at the same time This book offers a radically different argument about how traditions and global citizenship can meet and suggests some important lessons for the contours of globalization in our own time Adam K Webb argues that if we look back before modernity we find a very different line of thinking about what it means to take the whole world as one s horizon Digging into some fascinating currents of thought and practice in the ancient world the Middle Ages and the early modern period across all major civilizations Webb is able to reveal patterns of deep cosmopolitanism with its logic quite unlike that of liberal globalization today In their more cosmopolitan moments everyone from clerics to pilgrims to empire builders was inclined to look for deep ethical parallels points of contact among civilizations and traditions Once modernity swept aside the old civilizations however that promise was largely forgotten We now have an impoverished view of what it means to embrace a tradition and even what kinds of conversations across traditions are possible In part two Webb draws out the lessons of deep cosmopolitanism for our own time If revived it has something to say about everything from the rise of new non Western powers like China and India and what they offer the world to religious tolerance to global civil society to cross border migration Deep Cosmopolis traces an alternative strand of cosmopolitan thinking that cuts across centuries and civilizations It advances a new perspective on world history and a distinctive vision of globalization for this century which has the real potential to resonate with us all
