Representing Childhood and Atrocity Victoria Nesfield, Philip Smith, 2022-12-01 Atrocity presents a problem to the writer of children s literature To represent events of such terrible magnitude and impersonal will as the Holocaust the transatlantic slave trade or the Rwandan genocide such that they fit into a three act structure with a comprehensible moral and a happy ending is to do a disservice to the victims Yet to confront children with the fact of widescale violence without resolution is to confront them with realities that may be emotionally disturbing and even damaging Despite these challenges however there exists a considerable body of work for and about children that addresses atrocity To examine the ways in which writers and artists have attempted to address children s experience of atrocity this collection brings together original essays by an international group of scholars working in the fields of child studies children s literature comics studies education English literature and Holocaust genocide and memory studies It covers a broad geographical range and includes works by established authors and emerging voices

Fabulating Beauty Andreas Gaile, 2005 Peter Carey is one of Australia's finest creative writers much admired by both literary critics and a worldwide reading public. While academia has been quick to see his fictions as exemplars of postcolonial and postmodern writing strategies, his general readership has been captivated by his deadpan sense of humour, his quirky characters, the outlandish settings and the grotesqueries of his intricate plots. After three decades of prolific writing and multiple award-winning, Carey stands out in the world of Australian letters as designated heir to Patrick White. Fabulating Beauty pays tribute to Carey's literary achievement. It brings together the voices of many of the most renowned Carey critics in twenty essays, sixteen commissioned especially for this volume, an interview with the author as well as the most extensive bibliography of Carey criticism to date. The studies represent a wide range of current perspectives on the writer's fictions.
