Intellectual Capital Tom Karier, 2010-08-30. There is arguably no award more recognized in the academic and professional worlds than the Nobel Prize. The public pays attention to the prizes in the fields of economics, literature, and peace because their recipients are identified with particular ideas, concepts, or actions that often resonate with or sometimes surprise a global audience. The Nobel Prize in Economic Science, established by the Bank of Sweden in 1969, has been granted to 64 individuals. Thomas Karier explores the core ideas of the economic theorists whose work led to their being awarded the Nobel in its first forty years. He also discusses the assumptions and values that underlie their economic theories revealing different and controversial features of the content and methods of the discipline The Nobelists include Keynesians monetarists financial economists behaviorists historians statisticians mathematicians game theorists and other innovators Economic Sciences, 1996-2000 Torsten Persson, 2003 Below is a list of the prizewinners during the period 1996 2000 with a description of the works which won them their prizes 1996 J A MIRRELES 1997 R C MERTON 1998 A K SEN for his contributions to welfare economics 1999 R A MUNDELL for his analysis of monetary and fiscal policy under different exchange rate regimes and his analysis of optimum currency areas 2000 J J HECKMAN for his development of theory and methods for analyzing selective samples D L McFADDEN for his development of theory and methods for analyzing discrete choice The Nobel Factor Avner Offer, Gabriel Söderberg, 2016-10-04 8 Models into Policy Assar Lindbeck and Swedish Social Democracy 9 Swedoscclerosis or Pseudoscclerosis Sweden in the 1980s 10 The Real Crisis Not Work Incentives but Runaway Credit 11 Beyond Scandinavia Washington Consensus to Market Corruption Conclusion Like Physics or Like Literature Bibliography Index Irrationally Rational Viswanathan Raghunathan, 2022-04-30 You and your friend each have flights to catch at 8 p m and your destination cities are different You decide to share a cab but get caught in a rare traffic jam lasting several hours You end up at the airport around midnight and surely enough both of you miss your flights All quantifiable consequences of missing the flights cost of tickets cancellation paying for a new ticket taking a cab back to the city overnight stay taking a cab back to the airport next morning etc are expectedly identical for both Now suppose the airline assistant tells you Sorry your flight left as scheduled at 8 p m sharp But your friend is told Oh how very unfortunate Your flight was almost four hours late and only just departed Who feels the greater disappointment You or your friend Neoclassical economics tells us that because both individuals are assumed rational their regret levels ought to be identical since their economic consequences are identical Behavioural economists however combine psychology with economics and focus on how real people with their cognitive biases actually behave The friend who just missed the flight does indeed experience greater disappointment than the one who missed the flight by a margin of four hours Does that make one or the other irrational Irrationally Rational takes you through the journey of such rationality irrationality arguments showing why economics shorn of psychology may be incomplete It is the first book of its kind collating the works of ten Nobel Laureates largely responsible for the rise of behavioural economics that makes understanding behavioural economics more fun and accessible The Palgrave Companion to MIT Economics Robert A.
