FoL ,1980 The Noun Phrase in Romance and Germanic Petra Sleeman,Harry Perridon,2011-02-16 One of the recurrent questions in historical linguistics is to what extent languages can borrow grammar from other languages It seems for instance hardly likely that each average European language developed a definite article all by itself without any influence from neighbouring languages It is on the other hand by no means clear what exactly was borrowed since the way in which definiteness is expressed differs greatly among the various Germanic and Romance languages and dialects One of the main aims of this volume is to shed some light on the question of what is similar and what is different in the structure of the noun phrase of the various Romance and Germanic languages and dialects and what causes this similarity or difference Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Morphology: Morphology: its relation to phonology Francis Katamba,2004 This six volume collection draws together the most significant contributions to morphological theory and analysis which all serious students of morphology should be aware of By comparing the stances taken by the different schools about the important issues the reader will be able to judge the merits of each with the benefit of evidence rather than prejudice
