Nontraditional Entrants To Higher Education They Talk About People Like Me:

Making Learning Happen Phil Race, 2005-10-03 Another textbook about learning in the post compulsory sector fortunately this one has an abundant supply of a quality that is often lacking in such books thoughtful originality backed up by meaningful experience on the part of the author The book as a whole is mercifully free of unnecessary jargon a point that the author points out in the preface and is accessible and friendly in tone Race's ripples on a pond model is effortlessly applicable to a range of learning and teaching situations and provides a useful tool for exploring teaching and learning practice ESCalate Professor Race is without a doubt a master of intelligent simplicity This book may seem to be innocent of theory but a serious understanding of the needs of learners is clear behind every page The approach is to make sense of the collated feedback from thousands of students and teachers gleaned by questions asked during workshops and seminars There is an enormous amount of practical useful material It is replete with lists charts bullet points pithy hints and guidelines I will not be in the least surprised if this book is a runaway success Anita Pincas Lifelong Education and International Development Institute of Education London Phil Race freely shares his experience and his wise counsel in a text where he emerges from the pages as a clear thinking clear writing expert in this field with much to offer John Cowan Emeritus Professor of Learning Development the Open University Making Learning Happen provides an accessible and practical discussion of teaching and learning for the post compulsory sector of higher and further education Much of the existing educational literature on learning is written in language which makes it inaccessible to the people most directly involved in learning learners and their teachers This book avoids the unnecessary jargon and elitist language which has too often hitherto hindered teachers and learners alike in thinking about how best to make learning happen This book will help staff in higher and further education increase the learning payoff which their students derive from a wide range of educational contexts at all levels in post compulsory education The book is centred around Phil Race's well known ripples on a pond model of learning which has identified five fundamental factors underpinning successful learning o wanting to learn o needing to learn o learning by doing o feedback o digesting making sense of what has been learned This text will allow teachers and students to address these factors head on in a wide range of contexts including large group teaching small group work online learning and in their use of formative feedback to help their students Included in the book is a self analysis questionnaire to enable learners to reflect on how these factors contribute to their own approaches to learning Making Learning Happen is a valuable resource for Postgraduate students on PGD higher and further education courses staff development courses in all British universities and is a helpful tool for lecturers and tutors in higher and further education post 16 teachers in secondary education educational managers and students themselves Improving the Student Experience Michelle Morgan, 2013-06-17 The landscape of higher education HE has dramatically altered in the past 30 years and it continues to evolve and change More students are entering HE and attending university or college on a global scale

than ever before Supporting and enhancing the undergraduate student experience across the student lifecycle from first contact through to alumni is a critical activity in higher education today not only to aid retention and progression but in a highly competitive HE market the quality of the student experience is pivotal to an institution's ability to attract students The student experience encompasses all aspects of student life i.e. academic social welfare with the academic imperative at the heart of it However the increasing costs of delivering HE a reduction in government state funding and constraints on resources means delivering a quality student experience has never been more challenging for those working in HE Staff at all levels and across all areas within an institution are developing and implementing initiatives to improve and enhance the student experience whether they are at the coal face or on the periphery thus making them a Practitioner in the student experience This could include the admissions administrator improving the information available for potential applicants the academic improving his/her feedback to students or central welfare departments ensuring that their services are being advertised and supported within a student's home unit faculty department school course In this book the Editor Michelle Morgan describes how her new student experience Practitioner Model provides an organised and more detailed structure guiding Practitioners in the identification of what they have to deliver who they need to deliver it to and when they need to deliver it across her six key stages of the student lifecycle First Contact and Admissions Pre arrival Arrival and Orientation Induction to Study Reorientation and Reinduction Returners Induction Outduction preparation for life after undergraduate study The Practitioner Model offers a new way of thinking in terms of delivering interlinked academic welfare and support activities at the home unit and university level to support the student in their university journey This book also provides working solutions to real problems in the form of exemplar case studies from the UK and internationally including chapters from Liz Thomas Di Nutt Marcia Ody Chris Keenan UK Mary Stuart Hunter USA Kerri Lee Krause and Duncan Nulty Australia Good practice must be adaptable and transferable because one size does not fit all It must also be cost effective And here the authors show how practitioners can adapt and customise the 40 case studies presented to help them not only improve and enhance the experience of their undergraduate students in their own institution both full and part time but also to support their students progression and retention

Routledge Handbook of the Sociology of Higher Education James E. Côté, 2016-06-03 This is the first handbook to cover the sociological approaches to higher education It is timely because of global expansions of mass higher educational systems especially as these systems come under scrutiny by a variety of stakeholders Questions are being raised about the value of traditional pedagogies along with calls for efficiency accountability and cost reduction but above all job training Within this neoliberal context each chapter examines different sociological aspects of and debates about educational institutions as status conferring organizations with myriad positional characteristics experiences and outcomes Many current debates concern the legitimacy of the statuses conferred including the continuing debate regarding the role of universities in legitimating social class reproduction as well as more recent concerns about standards in mass systems This handbook puts these issues and debates in focus in ways that will be of interest to a variety of stakeholders within academia as well as in policy circles

Men, Law and Gender Richard Collier, 2010-04-05 What does it mean to speak of men as a gender category in relation to law How does law relate to masculinities This book presents the first comprehensive overview and critical assessment of the relationship between men law and gender outlining the contours of the man of law across diverse areas of legal and social policy Written in a theoretically informed yet accessible style Men Law and Gender provides an introduction to the study of law and masculinities whilst calling for a richer more nuanced conceptual framework in which men s legal practices and subjectivities might be approached Building on recent sociological work concerned with the relational nature of gender and personal life Richard Collier argues that social cultural and economic changes have reshaped ideas about men and masculinities in ways that have significant implications for law Bringing together voices and disciplines that are rarely considered together he explores the way ideas about men have been contested and politicised in the legal arena Including original empirical studies of male lawyers the legal profession and fathers rights and law reform alongside discussions of university law schools and legal academics and family policy and parenting cultures this innovative timely and important text provides a unique and important insight into the relationship between law men and masculinities It will be required reading for academics and students in law and legal theory socio legal studies gender studies sociology and social policy as well as policy makers and others concerned with the changing nature of gender relations

Reconceptualising Lifelong Learning Sue Jackson, Penny Jane Burke, 2007-05-10 Arising from work by the Gender and Lifelong Learning Group of the Gender and Education Association this book presents reconceptualisations of lifelong learning It argues that the current field of lifelong learning is based on certain hidden values and assumptions and examines the mechanisms by which exclusionary discourses and practices are reproduced and maintained The book opens up ways of conceptualising learning that takes into account multiple and shifting formations of learners from different social contexts The authors broaden what counts as learning and who counts as a learner offering different understandings of lifelong learning that are able to include currently marginalised values and principles Organised in four sections the book looks at reclaiming it draws on feminist and post structural conceptual frameworks to create a critical analysis of the current field of lifelong learning retelling it tells the tales of different multi positions in lifelong learning revisioning it moves from narrative to analysis and the authors present their revisioning of learning which provide the tools to reconceptualise the field of lifelong learning reconstructing it furthers the discussion to outline new approaches to and practices in lifelong learning

Educational Upward Mobility Antonia Kupfer, 2015-04-14 What enables the few working class people who enter higher education to achieve against the odds This book offers answers by comparing social contexts educational institutions and policies in Austria and England to demonstrate a surprising number of similarities behind those who succeed using Bourdieu s concept of habitus

Gender and Lifelong

Learning Carole Leathwood, Becky Francis, 2006-10-03 This insightful book is ideal for students researchers and policy makers wanting a sound overview of the critical issues of gender in lifelong learning Asking pertinent questions relating to discourses on policy the authors offer the reader a rare view of lifelong learning from a gender focused perspective filling a gap in the literature and moving current debate on into new areas Questions addressed include To what extent can the policy discourses and institutional contexts of lifelong learning be seen as masculinised and or feminised What are the gender implications of lifelong learning policy In what ways are learners identities constructed through lifelong learning Does lifelong learning provide opportunities to challenge or transgress gender binaries What are the implications for practice
