Norsewood A Centennial Story:

Norsewood The Centennial Story A. L. Andersen, 1972 Norsewood Archibald Leonard Andersen, 1972 Norsewood A. L. Anderson, 1972 Norsewood Archibald Leonard Andersen, 1972 Minding the Gap Thom Conroy, Gail Pittaway, 2015-10-13 Passengers on the British railway and underground must mind the gap because it is dangerous not to. In a state of embarking or disembarking passengers must stay aware of the small but significant space separating the stationary from the moving. The contemporary practices of writing and reading are in constant motion and the phrase mind the gap captures an essential aspect of the way language and literature progress as they pass through any number of social, technical and political exchanges. Minding the gap also suggests an awareness of the always shifting distance between the expected and the unexpected, the ordinary and the impossible, the familiar and the unimaginable. This book includes chapters on writing, non-fiction, media and genre and also addresses elements of identity, culture and linguistics in fiction, poetry and creative non-fiction. As contributors consider the gaps that exist between the self as writer, as reader and as editor or mentor, the volume adopts the following key themes: new gaps for creative writing in the academy; writing in new genres, media and forms; exploring the creative process and narrative strategies across disciplines. This book will be of international appeal to all readers interested in the changing landscape of creative writing. EbscoHost The Ideal Society and Its Enemies Miles Fairburn, 2013-10-01 In this challenging and provocative study of the nature of settler society in 19th century New Zealand, Fairburn focuses on the lives of the common people and presents a rigorous and original description of the place and time which is radically different from those of previous historians. An important book that will have a major impact on our understanding of New Zealand's past, it is also a significant contribution to the study of new societies. Between Dispersion and Belonging Amitava Chowdhury, Donald Harman Akenson, 2016-06-01 As a historical and religious term, diaspora has existed for many years, but it only became an academic and analytical concept in the 1980s and 90s. Within its various usages, two broad directions stand out: diaspora as a dispersion of people from an original homeland and diaspora as a claim of identity that expresses a form of belonging and also keeps alive a sense of difference. Between Dispersion and Belonging critically assesses the meaning and practice of diaspora, first by engaging with the theoretical life histories of the concept and then by examining a range of historical case studies. Essays in this volume draw from diaspora formations in the pre-modern Indian Ocean region, read diaspora against the concept of indigeneity in the Americas, reassess the claim for a Swedish diaspora, interrogate the notion of an invisible English diaspora in the Atlantic world, calibrate the meaning of the Irish diaspora in North America and consider the case for a global Indian indentured labour diaspora. Through these studies, the contributors demonstrate that an inherent appeal to globality is central to modern formulations of diaspora. They are not global in the sense that diasporas span the entire globe; rather, they are global precisely because they are not bound by arbitrary geopolitical units. In examining the ways in which academic and larger society discuss diaspora, Between Dispersion

and Belonging presents a critique of modern historiography and positions that critique in the shape of global history Contributors include William Safran University of Colorado Boulder James T Carson Queen s University Eivind H Seland University of Bergen Don MacRaild University of Ulster and Rankin Sherling Marion Military Institute the Military College of Alabama

Mana Tangatarua Zarine L. Rocha,Melinda Webber,2017-11-09 This volume explores mixed race mixed ethnic identities in Aotearoa New Zealand Mixed race and mixed ethnic identity are growing in popularity as research topics around the world This edited collection looks at mixed race and mixed ethnic identity in New Zealand a unique context as multiple ethnic identities have been officially recognised for more than 30 years The book draws upon research across a range of disciplines exploring the historical and contemporary ways in which official and social understandings of mixed race and ethnicity have changed It focuses on the interactions between race ethnicity national identity indigeneity and culture especially in terms of visibility and self defined identity in the New Zealand context Mana Tangatarua situates New Zealand in the existing international scholarship positioning experiences from New Zealand within theoretical understandings of mixedness The chapters develop wider theories of mixed race and mixed ethnic identity at macro and micro levels looking at the interconnections between the two The volume as a whole reveals the diverse ways in which mixed race is experienced and understood providing a key contribution to the theory and development of mixed race globally
