DBMSs are unnecessary and will degrade the performance of data intensive applications We present the design and implementation of DBMS architectures that are explicitly tailored for NVM The book focuses on three aspects of a DBMS 1 logging and recovery 2 storage and buffer management and 3 indexing First we present a logging and recovery protocol that enables the DBMS to support near instantaneous recovery Second we propose a storage engine architecture and buffer management policy that leverages the durability and byte addressability properties of NVM to reduce data duplication and data migration Third the book presents the design of a range index tailored for NVM that is latch free yet simple to implement All together the work described in this book illustrates that rethinking the fundamental algorithms and data structures employed in a DBMS for NVM improves performance and availability reduces operational cost and simplifies software development
