Criminal Justice Research in an Era of Mass Mobility Andriani Fili, Synnøve Jahnsen, Rebecca Powell, 2018-05-08 We live in an era of mass mobility where governments remain committed to closing borders engaging with securitisation discourses and restrictive immigration policies which in turn nurture xenophobia and racism It is within this wider context of social and political unrest that the contributors of this collection reflect on their experiences of conducting criminological research This collection focuses on the challenges of doing research on the intersections between criminal justice and immigration control choosing and changing methodologies while juggling the disciplinary and interdisciplinary requirements of the work s audience From research design to fieldwork to writing up this book captures every part of the research process drawing on a range of topics such as migration control immigrant detention and border policing It also reflects on more neglected areas such as the interpersonal and institutional contexts of research and the ontological and epistemological assumptions embedded within data analysis methods It makes a significant contribution to our understanding of the major developments in current research in this field how and why they occur and with what consequences This book seeks to shake off the phantom of undisturbed research settings by bringing to the fore the researchers involvement in the research process and its products An interdisciplinary collection it can be used as a reference not just for those interested in the criminology of mobility but also as a learning tool for anyone conducting research on a highly charged topic in contemporary policy and politics

Methodological Approaches in Kurdish Studies Bahar Baser, Yasin Duman, Mari Toivanen, Begum Zorlu, 2018-11-06 This edited volume presents thirteen contributions that reflect upon the practical ethical theoretical and methodological challenges that researchers face when conducting fieldwork in settings that are characterized with deteriorating security situations increasing state control and conflicting inter ethnic relations More precisely they shed light to the intricacies of conducting fieldwork on highly politicized and sensitive topics in the region of Kurdistan in Iraq Syria and Turkey as well as among Kurdish diaspora members in Europe This volume is multidisciplinary in its focus and approach It includes contributions from scholars from various disciplinary backgrounds ranging from sociology and political science to social psychology and anthropology The complexity of security situations and the atmospheres of distrust and suspicion have led the contributors to be creative and to adapt their research methods in ways that at times transcend disciplinary boundaries and conventions Relatedly the contributions also open the often considered Pandora s box of discussing the failures in what is often a messy research field and how to adopt one's methods to rapidly changing political circumstances. This necessitates greater reflexivity in existing power relations of the surrounding context and how those affect not only the interaction situations between the researcher and the participants but also raise questions for the overall research process concerning namely social justice representation and knowledge production. The contributions unravel this by unpacking positionalities beyond ethnicities discussing how gendered and other positionalities are constructed in fieldwork interactions and by illustrating how the surrounding structures of power and dominance are present in every day fieldwork. What differentiates this book from the existing literature is that it is the first academic endeavor that solely focuses on methodological reflections aimed to the field of Kurdish Studies. It offers a comprehensive and multidisciplinary account of scholars' fieldwork experiences in the Kurdish regions and as such it is also of value to scholars conducting or about to conduct fieldwork in conflict regions elsewhere.

such as ELF and their shortcomings in respect of the concept of value Manuela Vida Mannl puts forth a critique of the marketization of English and the complicity of higher education in the reproduction of linguistic hierarchies and social inequalities in Cyprus and by implication more generally She presents a conception of English as a marketable attribute that does not necessarily require competence which points to the ongoing imbrication of English in the reproduction of global structural and social inequality as it exposes the myth of class advancement through English Building on an extensive study based on 205 questionnaires and 25 subsequent in depth ethnographic interviews and by focusing on the value of English within the unique context of divided Cyprus this book uncovers an intriguing perspective on the neoliberal role and significance of the English language in our globalized world
