Raf And Rcaf Aircraft Nose Art In World War II:

RAF and RCAF Aircraft Nose Art in World War II Clarence Simonsen, 2001-06 9 x 12 256 pgs 400 b w photos 16 pgs of detailed color drawings Military aircraft decorated with gaudy personalized artwork usually of the ribald and risqu  variety are generally associated with American bombers and fighters most of which flew by day In contrast those of their allies in the RAF and RCAF especially the nocturnal bombers are usually perceived as being sober and dull That this was far from being the case is revealed in this photographic study that shows that the men who flew aircraft wearing roundels could be just as imaginative in decorating their machines The results were as varied as the skills of the mostly untrained artists who used all manner of sources as their inspiration but especially pinup pictures by Vargas and Petty The author not only shows the finished nose and tail art of many aircraft but also pays tribute to many of their crews To do so he has enlisted the aid of a number of the men responsible for painting the aircraft as well as the assistance of Walt Disney studios and the model who was the original Petty Girl This work includes hundreds of close up pictures of artwork on many different types of aircraft Lancaster Halifax Mosquito Beaufighter Spitfire and Hurricane among them in many cases accompanied by the story of the aircraft and crew as well Detailed color artwork by the author and Jon Field show many of these emblems and the rest of the aircraft markings

Flying against Fate S. P. MacKenzie, 2017-08-04 During World War II Allied casualty rates in the air were high Of the roughly 125 000 who served as aircrew with Bomber Command 59 423 were killed or missing and presumed killed a fatality rate of 45 5% With odds like that it would be no surprise if there were as few atheists in cockpits as there were in foxholes and indeed many airmen faced their dangerous missions with beliefs and rituals ranging from the traditional to the outlandish Military historian S P MacKenzie considers this phenomenon in Flying against Fate a pioneering study of the important role that superstition played in combat flier morale among the Allies in World War II Mining a wealth of documents as well as a trove of published and unpublished memoirs and diaries MacKenzie examines the myriad forms combat fliers superstitions assumed from jinxes to premonitions Most commonly airmen carried amulets or talismans lucky boots or a stuffed toy a coin whose year numbers added up to thirteen counterintuitively a boomerang Some performed rituals or avoided other acts e g having a photo taken before a flight Whatever seemed to work was worth sticking with and a heightened risk often meant an upsurge in superstitious thought and behavior MacKenzie delves into behavior analysis studies to help explain the psychology behind much of the behavior he documents not slighting the large cohort of crew members and commanders who demurred He also looks into the ways in which superstitious behavior was tolerated or even encouraged by those in command who saw it as a means of buttressing morale The first in depth exploration of just how varied and deeply felt superstitious beliefs were to tens of thousands of combat fliers Flying against Fate expands our understanding of a major aspect of the psychology of war in the air and of World War II
