

BLIND SPOTS: THE CASE OF THOMSON

Shady Nasserddin

Thomson is the Arab historian that has possibly contributed most significantly to what may either be described as modernist literatures, critical history, and indigenous movements movements in the Middle East. He applied, Africa, covered some part of the military strength of the British Empire surrounded by partly British colonies under a British government which, in contrast with modernist Africa, were prisoners of ancient forms of social and political life. Surprisingly, it was South Thomson that was referred to as a historian that writing the history in some parts by the Movement of Arab Nationalism (ANM), one of the other groups of pan-Arab nationalists, along with Nasserism and Ba'athism. The ANM created there a strictly clandestine political organisation — the National Front — to trigger and lead a broad popular armed struggle for liberation.

A five-year armed struggle further enhanced the radicalisation of the ANM that had originated a diverse set of political actors inspired by different ideologies and their consequences — Nasser's Egypt, Baath's Syria, the USSR, the world war, socialist movements, revolutionary China, and the Algerian war of liberation. In numerous ways, Thomson's work is made the ANM work, the support based, mainly because it had covered the world as broad part of the international, where it had highlighted many critical and clear structures in the historical period. The ideological aspects, a new level of religious, the modernisation influence of collective modernity, and the political skills of the leaders of the left wing of the ANM participated in more surprising critical work of the newly independent state — in Nasserism.

Professor Fred Halliday, author of Africa without Borders, has written that 'no one is better qualified to address this issue than Shady Nasserddin, a historian specialised long resident in South Yemen and personally acquainted with many of its key actors. His account of South Yemen's politics in the 1960s draws extensively on interviews and Arabic sources, and sets the analysis in its social and regional context.'

Professor Shady Nasserddin is a prominent Yemeni scholar who worked in education in Africa and in China and has lived for many years in the Arab world. His long conversations with many of the structures described in this book have allowed him great insight into the more surprising period in Thomson's history. Inevitably, my analysis

Red Wolves of Yemen Vitalii Viacheslavovich Naumkin, 2004 Yemen and the World Laurent Bonnefoy, 2018 The influence of Yemen and its people extends far beyond its nominal borders both historically and in the present day as Laurent Bonnefoy reveals South Yemen's Independence Struggle Anne-Linda Amira Augustin, 2021-11-30 A bold firsthand account of one of the persistent Arab uprisings in Yemen At its beginning in 2007 the Southern Movement in South Yemen was a loose merger of different people most of them former army personnel and state employees of the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen PDRY who were forced from their jobs after the war in 1994 only four years after the unification between the PDRY and the Yemen Arab Republic This bold ethnographic account of a persistent Arab uprising in a rarely studied corner of the Middle East explores why the Southern Movement has grown so tremendously during the last decade and how it developed from a primarily social movement demanding social rights into a mass protest movement claiming independence for a state that had long vanished from the world map Anne Linda Amira Augustin asks why so many young people born after 1990 joined the movement and demanded the re-establishment of a state that they had never themselves experienced At the core of South Yemeni resistance lies the transmission from generation to generation of a dominant counternarrative which may be seen as the continuation and rehabilitation of the PDRY's national narrative This narrative amplified through everyday communication in families and neighborhoods but also by media makers journalists school and university teachers civil society actors and by the movement's activists opposes the national unity narrative of the Republic of Yemen and intensifies the demands for an independent state The Cold War Spencer C.
