forces of capitalism and biases in international and development communication messages provides a historical perspective and a contemporary analysis of the field of international communication and its application to development communication. The book examines how communication media and telecommunications are considered central to globalization and to national development and discusses globalization in history, the role of media, changes in structural biases of media and telecommunication institutions, national forces of capitalism and biases in international and development communication messages. The book is divided into two parts: Part One revolves around media institutions and the conditions under which they have been used by the state and private capital; Part Two focuses on development communication applications by various active researchers and professors drawn from Latin America, South Asia, and North America. With contributions from experts in the field, each part of the book begins with a chapter on theories and closes with one on issues. Chapters within each part examine the distinct and broadly recognized topics of research within each area, such as media corporations in the age of globalization, transnational advertising, the global local dialectic, and polysemic effects, development communication campaigns, communication technology and development, and international development communication.

Communicating Social Change Mohan J. Dutta, 2011-05-10 Communicating Social Change Structure Culture and Agency explores the use of communication to transform global national and local structures of power that create and sustain oppressive conditions Author Mohan J Dutta describes the social challenges that exist in current globalization politics and examines the communicative processes strategies and tactics through which social change interventions are constituted in response to the challenges Using empirical evidence and case studies he documents the ways through which those in power create conditions at the margins and he provides a theoretical base for discussing the ways in which these positions of power are resisted through communication processes strategies and tactics The interplay of power and control with resistance is woven through each of the chapters in the book This exceptional volume highlights the points of intersection between the theory and praxis of social change communication creating theoretical entry points for the praxis of social change It is intended for communication scholars and students studying activism social movements and communication for social change and it will also resonate in such disciplines such as development sociology and social work with those who are studying social transformations Radical Communications Michael Tsangaris, 2021-11-08 Radical Communications explores unauthorized messages we see in the cities we live in and their impact on the construction of social reality Michael Tsangaris treats the city as a text and examines the political slogans graffiti and street art of Athens as complex visual signs in an alternative communication system He argues that the legitimacy aesthetic value and social acceptability of these expressions depend on the time place and social group or individual that interprets them Finally his analysis reveals the contradictory character of the contemporary city It shows a city of social inequalities cultural diversity multinational encounters of conflicts between age groups and political economic and epidemic crises a city of one dimensional thinking apathy and consumer fetishism but also a city that aspires to the dream of a better society and holds utopian promise
