of identities of place across a range of national cinemas As films reflect the ways in which myths of nation and national belonging change over time they are implicated in important historical moments from Cold War America to the class dynamics of 1980s Thatcherite Britain to the fragmented sense of nation in post unification Germany Bonzel shows how sports films provide a means for renegotiating the boundaries of national identity in an accessible engaging form National Pastimes opens up new ways of understanding how films appeal to the emotions using myth like constructions of the past to cultivate spectators engagement with historical events White Balance Justin Gomer,2020-04-17 The racial ideology of colorblindness has a long history In 1963 Martin Luther King famously stated I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character However in the decades after the civil rights movement the ideology of colorblindness co opted the language of the civil rights era in order to reinvent white supremacy fuel the rise of neoliberalism and dismantle the civil rights movement s legal victories without offending political decorum Yet the spread of colorblindness could not merely happen through political speeches newspapers or books The key Justin Gomer contends was film as race conscious language was expelled from public discourse Hollywood provided the visual medium necessary to dramatize an anti civil rights agenda over the course of the 70s 80s and 90s In blockbusters like Dirty Harry Rocky and Dangerous Minds filmmakers capitalized upon the volatile racial social and economic struggles in the decades after the civil rights movement shoring up a powerful bipartisan ideology that would be wielded against race conscious policy the memory of black freedom struggles and core aspects of the liberal state itself
