Questions about meanings of home and domestic culture are triggered by dramatic changes in values and ideals about the dwellings we live in and the dwellings we desire or dread. Deborah Chambers explores how home is idealized as a middle-class haven, managed as an investment and signified as a status symbol and expression of personal identity. She addresses a range of public state, commercial, popular, and expert discourses about home: the heritage industry, design exhibitions, television, social media, home mobilities, and migration, smart technologies, and ecological sustainability. Drawing on cross-disciplinary research including cultural history and cultural geography, the book offers a distinctive media and cultural studies approach supported by original, historically informed case studies on interior and domestic design, exhibitions of model homes, TV home interiors, media home imaginaries, multiscreen homes, corporate visions of homes of tomorrow, and digital smart homes. A comprehensive and engaging study, this book is ideal for students and researchers of cultural studies, cultural history, media and communication studies, as well as sociology, gender studies, cultural geography, and design studies. Special Report: Mallorca 2025, As Mallorca undergoes a transformative period defined by sustainable tourism, economic diversification, and social innovation, Special Report Mallorca 2025 offers 200 pages of exclusive insights into the strategies shaping the island's next chapter. This edited collection examines the complex dynamics of the ever-evolving media environment of lifestyle journalism, encompassing aspects of consumerism, entertainment, and cosmopolitanism, as well as traditional journalistic practices. Through detailed case studies and research, the book discusses themes of consumer culture, identity, representation, the sharing economy, and branding, while bringing in important new aspects such as social media and new cultural intermediaries. International and cross-disciplinary, the book is divided into four parts: emerging roles, experience and identity in lifestyle media, new players and lifestyle actors, and lifestyle consumerism and brands. Featuring case studies from a variety of countries including Turkey, the US, Chile, and the UK, this is an important resource for journalism students and academics. Lifestyle Media in American Culture Maureen E. Ryan, 2018-02-01 This book explores the emergence of lifestyle in the US, first as a term that has become an organizing principle for the self and for the structure of everyday life, and later as a pervasive form of media that encompasses a variety of domestic and self improvement genres from newspaper columns to design blogs Drawing on the methodologies of cultural studies and feminist media studies and built upon a series of case studies from newspapers books television programs and blogs it tracks the emergence of lifestyle s discursive formation and shows its relevance in contemporary media culture It is in the broadest sense about the role played by the explosion of lifestyle media texts in changing conceptualizations of selfhood and domestic life
