Milford to the Minisink Valley Susan Titus Mickley, 2005 Minisink Valley where some of our nation's earliest history occurred The Minisink Valley is an area which reaches from Minisink Ford New York to Lackawaxen Pennsylvania to the Delaware Water Gap at New Jersey and Pennsylvania Historic Takings in Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area David Fazzino, 2022-06-27 The Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area DEWA is among the busiest National Park Service NPS units with millions of annual visitors In this book David Fazzino uses oral history and archival work to consider the ramifications of government land takings done half a century ago to uproot families and communities across 70 000 acres in Pennsylvania and New Jersey Fazzino situates these land takings in historical context to explain the ways places have been taken both physically and ideologically in the name of progress development wilderness and recreation The author contrasts legal valuations measured along utilitarian and material lines with lived valuations which account for place as experiential intimate personal and relational Fazzino also considers the ruins of what was and the remains of past lives in the valley to suggest inclusive possibilities of future management regimes in DEWA and federal public lands more broadly Montague Alicia C. Batko, 2009 Montague Township sits at the high point of New Jersey cradled by the Delaware River and the Kittatinny Mountains where New Jersey New York and Pennsylvania converge The Dutch initially settled in the Minisink Valley and helped define the character of the area Founded in 1759 the township evolved along the river which encouraged trade and travel and on the legendary Old Mine Road a Native American trail and trade route By 1826 the Milford Bridge was built and would serve as a gateway to the Poconos Following the Civil War farms dotted the landscape and city residents escaped the industrial boom by frequenting the Brick House and Rock View hotels and neighboring summer boarding homes The range of vistas served as inspiration for John Newton Hewitt and other artists With progress and infrastructure heralding change High Point State Park and Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area were formed to protect natural resources yet historic structures within them vanished The Pictorial Field-book of the Revolution Benson John Lossing, 1855
