Recovering Ancestors in Anthropological Traditions

Regna Darnell, Frederic W. Gleach, The Birdman of Koshkonong Martha Bergland, 2021-03-18 Thure Kumlien was one of Wisconsin's earliest Swedish settlers and an accomplished ornithologist, botanist and naturalist in the mid 1800s though his name is not well known today. He settled on the shore of Lake Koshkonong in 1843 and soon began sending bird specimens to museums and collectors in Europe and the eastern United States including the Smithsonian. Later he prepared natural history exhibits for the newly established University of Wisconsin and became the first curator and third employee of the new Milwaukee Public Museum. For all of his achievements Kumlien never gained the widespread notoriety of Wisconsin naturalists John Muir, Increase Lapham or Aldo Leopold. Kumlien did his work behind the scenes content to spend his days in the marshes and swamps rather than in the public eye. He once wrote that he was not cut out for pretensions and show in the world. Yet his detailed observations of Wisconsin's natural world including the impact of early agriculture on the environment were hugely important to the fields of ornithology and botany. As this carefully researched and lovingly rendered biography proves Thure Kumlien deserves to be remembered as one of Wisconsin's most influential naturalists. Skyscraper

Facades of the Gilded Age Joseph J. Korom, Jr., 2013-02-01 This book is about the design of the facade of 51 of America's most extravagant early skyscrapers. Included are the biographies of noted architects and the aristocrats who financed America's first skyscrapers. This book discusses the influences of European aesthetic values in America and scandals, rogues and class distinctions. Interpretations by contemporary critics are sprinkled throughout the text. Woven throughout the book are inquiries about the validity of Greek and Roman mythologies and their relationships to modern America and its spirit of invention and progress. Foreign traditions were challenged by some architects but then accepted by most. Why was it necessary for the long dead hero of a faraway civilization to be included on the facade of a newly invented American skyscraper? This book tells why. Windows for the world Jasmine Allen, 2018-04-12

Windows for the world explores the display and reception of nineteenth century British stained glass in a secular exhibition context. International in scope the book focuses on the global development of stained glass in this period as showcased at and influenced by these exhibitions. It recognises those who made and exhibited stained glass and demonstrates the long lasting impact of the classification and modes of display at these events. A number of exhibits are illustrated in colour and are analysed in relation to stylistic developments, techniques and material innovations as well as the broader iconographies of nation and empire in the nineteenth century.
