Maritime Heritage in Crisis Richard M. Hutchings, 2016-12-08 Grounded in critical heritage studies and drawing on a Pacific Northwest Coast case study Maritime Heritage in Crisis explores the causes and consequences of the contemporary destruction of Indigenous heritage sites in maritime settings Maritime heritage landscapes are undergoing a period of unprecedented crisis these areas are severely impacted by coastal development continued population growth and climate change Indigenous heritage sites are thought to be particularly vulnerable to these changes and cultural resource management is frequently positioned as a community's first line of defense yet there is increasing evidence that this archaeological technique is an ineffective means of protection Exploring themes of colonial dislocation and displacement Hutchings positions North American archaeology as neoliberal statecraft a tool of government designed to promote and permit the systematic clearance of Indigenous heritage landscapes in advance of economic development Presenting the institution of archaeology and cultural resource management as a grave threat to Indigenous maritime heritage Maritime Heritage in Crisis offers an important lesson on the relationship between neoliberal heritage regimes and global ecological breakdown The Socially Just School John Smyth, Barry Down, Peter McInerney, 2014-07-08 This book explores schools and how they can function as social institutions that advance the interests and life chances of all young people especially those who are already the most marginalized and at an educational disadvantage Social justice is a key theme as the book examines the needs of youth the concept of school culture school community relations socially critical pedagogy curriculum and leadership and a socially critical approach to work The Socially Just School is based upon four decades of intensive writing and researching of young lives This work presents an alternative to the damaging school reform in which schools are made to serve the interests of the economy education systems the military corporate or national interests Readers will discover the hallmarks of socially just schools They educationally engage young people regardless of class race family or neighbourhood location and they engage them around their own educational aspirations They regard all young people as being morally entitled to a rewarding and satisfying experience of school not only those whose backgrounds happen to fit with the values of schools They treat young people as having strengths and being at promise rather than being at risk and with deficits or as bundles of pathologies to be remedied or fixed They are active listeners to the lives and cultures of their students and communities and they construct learning experiences that are embedded in young lives This highly readable book will appeal to students and scholars in education and sociology as well as to teachers and school administrators with an interest in social justice Environmental Systems and Societies for the IB Diploma Coursebook Paul Guinness, Brenda Walpole, 2015-11-12 Environmental Systems and Societies for the IB Diploma follows the latest syllabus for first examination in 2017 Environmental Systems and Societies for the IB Diploma 2nd edition encourages critical and reflective thinking skills and promotes international mindedness ESL Speakers are supported throughout with a focus on vocabulary and straightforward explanation of topics appropriate for SL students Real world case studies bring theory to life and motivate students to delve into current global issues Theory of Knowledge is integrated throughout with added discussion points to spark debate in class Exam style questions build skills on analysis evaluation and interpretation Additional teacher support offers help with planning lessons differentiated learning and guidance about the Internal Assessment fieldwork exam preparation and Extended Essay Killing for Coal Thomas G. Andrews, 2010-09-01 This book offers a bold and original perspective on the 1914 Ludlow Massacre and the Great Coalfield War In a story of transformation Andrews illuminates the causes and consequences of the militancy that erupted in colliers strikes over the course of nearly half a century The Call of the Honeyguide Rob Dunn, 2025-08-26 A must read David George Haskell that shows how rethinking our relationships with other species can help us reimagine the future of humankind In the woodlands of sub Saharan Africa sometime deep in our species past something strange happened a bird called out not to warn others of human presence but to call attention to herself Having found a beehive that bird a honeyguide sought human aid to break in The behavior can seem almost miraculous How would a bird come to think that people could help her Isn t life simply bloodier than that As Rob Dunn argues in The Call of the Honeyguide it isn t Nature is red in tooth and claw but in equal measure life works together Cells host even smaller life wrapped in a web of mutual interdependence Ants might go to war but they also tend fungi aphids and even trees And we humans work not just with honeyguides but with yeast crops and pets Ecologists call these beneficial relationships mutualisms And they might be the most important forces in the evolution of life We humans often act as though we are all alone independent from the rest of life As The Call of the Honeyguide shows we are not It is a call to action for a more beneficent less lonely future

Assessing Outcomes in Child and Family Services Anthony N. Maluccio, 2017-11-30 In this collective portrait editors and authors do not attempt to draw systematic country by country comparisons Given the magnitude of the issues they believed that it would be inappropriate to paint with too broad a stroke What they have accomplished however is to codify and identify what the participants repeatedly noted in regard to issues and difficulties inherent in conducting outcome evaluation These include varying definitions of outcome complexities in measuring outcomes of particular interventions with different groups of consumers and documenting the effectiveness of the intervention the tendency to focus on evaluation of process more than outcome the challenge of involving practitioners in the evaluation task in part because its value is unclear to them or perceived as distant or untrustworthy the typical inadequacy of resources available for systematic evaluation and the need to inject rigor into the design and execution of evaluation projects The authors demonstrate strong conviction about sharing research expertise across national boundaries learning through each other how to cope with organizational impediments to cross national collaboration and strengthening the interaction between practice and research Their contributions suggest that there is wide interest in pursuing cross national collaboration In recent years largely in response to demands by their funding sources for accountability assessment of performance and cost effectiveness researchers in human services have been devoting increased attention to outcome evaluation Limited attention however has been given to the findings of evaluation studies conducted in different countries The present volume has been organized and edited to address the task of learning from outcome research across the world Its goal an extension of a major goal of the human services in any one country is to improve life chances of vulnerable children and youth Discrimination as Stigma Iyiola Solanke, 2016-12-29 This monograph reconceptualises discrimination law as fundamentally concerned with stigma. Using sociological and socio psychological theories of stigma the author presents an anti stigma principle promoting it as a method to determine the scope of legal protection from discrimination. The anti stigma principle recognises the role of institutional and individual action in the perpetuation of discrimination. Setting discrimination law within the field of public health it frames positive action and intersectional discrimination as the norm in this field of law rather than the exception. In developing and applying this new theory for anti discrimination law the book draws upon case law from jurisdictions including the UK, Australia, New Zealand, the USA and Canada as well as European law.

Criteria for Competence Michael Chandler, Michael Chapman, 2013-06-17 One of developmental psychology's central concerns is the identification of specific milestones which indicate what children are typically capable of doing at different ages. Work of this kind has a substantial impact on the way parents, educators and service oriented professionals deal with children and therefore one might expect that developmentalists would have come to some general agreement in regard to the ways they assess children's abilities. However as this volume demonstrates the field appears to suffer from a serious lack of consensus in this area. Based on the premise that identifying relevant issues is a necessary step toward progress this book addresses a number of vital topics such as: How could research into fundamental areas such as the age at which children first acquire a sense of self or learn to reason transitively repeatedly yield wildly diverse results? Why do experts who hold to radically different views appear to be so unruffled by this same divergence of professional opinion? And are there grounds for hope that this divergence of professional opinion is on the wane?
