Distant Suffering Luc Boltanski,1999-10-13 Distant Suffering first published in 1999 examines the moral and political implications for a spectator of the distant suffering of others as presented through the media What are the morally acceptable responses to the sight of suffering on television for example when the viewer cannot act directly to affect the circumstances in which the suffering takes place Luc Boltanski argues that spectators can actively involve themselves and others by speaking about what they have seen and how they were affected by it Developing ideas in Adam Smith s moral theory he examines three rhetorical topics available for the expression of the spectator s response to suffering the topics of denunciation and of sentiment and the aesthetic topic The book concludes with a discussion of a crisis of pity in relation to modern forms of humanitarianism A possible way out of this crisis is suggested which involves an emphasis and focus on present suffering War and Media Andrew Hoskins,Ben O'Loughlin,2013-04-23 The trinity of government military and publics has been drawn together into immediate and unpredictable relationships in a new media ecology that has ushered in new asymmetries in the waging of war and terror To help us understand these new relationships Andrew Hoskins and Ben O Loughlin here provide a timely comprehensive and highly readable survey of the field of war and media War is diffused through a complex mesh of our everyday media Paradoxically this both facilitates and contains the presence and power of enemies near and far The conventions of so called traditional warfare have been splintered by the availability and connectivity of the principal locus of war today the electronic and digital media Hoskins and O Loughlin identify and illuminate the conditions of what they term diffused war and the new challenges it raises for the actors who wage and counter warfare for their agents and mechanisms of the new media and for mass publics This book offers an invaluable review of the key literature and presents a fresh approach to the understanding of the dynamic relationships between war and media It will be welcomed by a broad range of students taking courses on war and media and related modules especially in media communication and cultural studies politics and international relations sociology journalism and security studies
