Place Of Confluent Education In The Human Potential Movement A Historical Perspective:

The Place of Confluent Education in the Human Potential Movement Stewart Bennett Shapiro, 1998 The Place of Confluent Education in the Human Potential Movement relates the twenty seven year Confluent Education Program at the University of California Santa Barbara to the broad Human Potential Movement in which the program is considered to be deeply embedded The origins of confluent education within the human potential movement are traced from Aristotle to its current form followed by a sustained and coherent critique of confluent education and concludes with its institutional professional and cultural legacy and summarizes the lessons to be learned from the history of this innovative form of Humanistic Education This book fills out in detail the historical cultural and philosophical context of confluent education while providing a complete account of its origins both remote and modern and a sustained coherent critique which are necessary for securing its identity Finally the demise of the program is interpreted using empirical methodology a multivariate analysis of the highly selective character of the students and survey research from students professors academic administrators and classroom teachers which document the perceived strength and weaknesses of the program and the human potential movement per se

A More Perfect Union Linda Sargent Wood, 2012-09-01 In 1962 when the Cold War threatened to ignite in the Cuban Missile Crisis when more nuclear test bombs were detonated than in any other year in history Rachel Carson released her own bombshell Silent Spring to challenge society's use of pesticides To counter the use of chemicals and bombs the naturalist articulated a holistic vision She wrote about a web of life that connected humans to the world around them and argued that actions taken in one place had consequences elsewhere Thousands accepted her message joined environmental groups flocked to Earth Day celebrations and lobbied for legislative regulation Carson was not the only intellectual to offer holistic answers to society's problems This book uncovers a sensibility in post World War II American culture that both tested the logic of the Cold War and fed some of the twentieth century's most powerful social movements from civil rights to environmentalism to the counterculture The study examines important leaders and institutions that embraced and put into practice a holistic vision for a peaceful healthful and just world nature writer Rachel Carson structural engineer R Buckminster Fuller civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr Jesuit priest and paleontologist Pierre Teilhard de Chardin humanistic psychologist Abraham Maslow and the Esalen Institute and its founders Michael Murphy and Dick Price Each looked to whole systems instead of parts and focused on connections interdependencies and integration to create a better world Though the 60s dreams of creating a more perfect world were tempered by economic inequalities political corruption and deep social divisions this holistic sensibility continues to influence American culture today
