Reductionism Analysis And The Fullness Of Reality:

Reductionism Richard H. Jones, 2000 Reductionism's approach brings together many of the most interesting questions today in philosophy consciousness and computers and in science issues of complexity and self organization It also presents a brief history of how reductionism has developed in Western philosophy and religion with reference to Indian philosophy on certain issues

Analysis & the Fullness of Reality Richard H. Jones, 2013-03-18 Is the world nothing but matter pushing matter in a void Are humans nothing but soulless machines for the survival of genes Is the mind nothing but the brain Is all science reducible to physics Must scientists restrict the substance and structure of reality to physical forces Does society consist merely of individuals or are holistic forces also at work Is God really no more than a projection of nature society or our psyche Or in each case do new realities emerge that cannot be reduced Virtually every scholarly and popular book and magazine article on the mind science or religion touches on these issues of reductionism But for all the interest in the topic no in depth introduction of the subject exists The objective of this philosophical work is to fill that void This book attempts to provide one common framework for studying how the issue of reduction versus emergence arises in each of the areas in which it comes up the natural sciences philosophy of mind the social sciences and religion It tries to resolve some of the disputes by a new analysis differentiating five types of reductionism and antireductionism ontological structural theoretical conceptual and methodological To help clarify the issues a brief history of how reductionism and emergentism have developed in Western philosophy is also presented By distinguishing different types of reductionism and by examining the issues in all the areas of philosophical interest collectively rather than limiting the discussion to just one area the general issues surrounding reduction versus emergence become clearer This approach brings together many of the most interesting questions today in philosophy science and religious studies The attempt throughout the work is to present the reductionists and emergentists strongest case on each issue and to identify problems with both sides But it is argued that in the end the reductionists in each area currently have the weaker position The work concludes with a discussion of the centrality of nonreducible features in reality and asks whether science under a reductionist vision can ever explain the emergence of higher levels of phenomena

Ford, 2016-01-28 Many books have discussed the development of the notion of God in Western monotheistic traditions but how have non Western cultures conceptualized what those in the West might identify as God What might be learned by comparing different visions of the Divine such as God gods Brahman Nirvana and Emptiness James L Ford engages these fascinating questions exploring notions of the Divine or Ultimate Reality within Jewish Christian Hindu and Buddhist traditions Looking at a multiplicity of divine conceptions even within traditions Ford discusses the relationship between imagination and revelation in the emergence of visions of ultimacy consequences and tendencies associated with particular notions of the Ultimate and how new visions of the Ultimate arise in relation to social cultural political and scientific developments Ford reflects on what can be learned through an awareness of the various beliefs about the Ultimate and on how such disparate visions influence the attitudes and behavior of people in different parts of the world

Physics of the Human Mind Ihor Lubashevsky, 2017-02-12 This book tackles the challenging question which mathematical formalisms and possibly new physical notions should be developed for quantitatively describing human cognition and behavior in addition to the ones already developed in the physical and cognitive sciences Indeed physics is widely used in modeling social systems where in particular new branches of science such as sociophysics and econophysics have arisen. However, many if not most characteristic features of humans like willingness, emotions, memory, future prediction, and moral norms to name but a few, are not yet properly reflected in the paradigms of physical thought and theory. The choice of a relevant formalism for modeling mental phenomena requires the comprehension of the general philosophical questions related to the mind-body problem. Plausible answers to these questions are investigated and reviewed, notions and concepts to be used or to be taken into account are developed, and some challenging questions are posed as open problems. This text addresses theoretical physicists and neuroscientists modeling any systems and processes where human factors play a crucial role; philosophers interested in applying philosophical concepts to the construction of mathematical models; and the mathematically oriented psychologists and sociologists whose research is fundamentally related to modeling mental processes.

Reframing the Social Professor Poe Yu-ze Wan, 2013-01-28 Drawing extensively on the research findings of natural and social sciences both in America and Europe, Reframing the Social argues for a critical realist and systemist social ontology designed to shed light on current debates in social theory concerning the relationship of social ontology to practical social research and the nature of the social. It explores the works of the systems theorist Mario Bunge in comparison with the approach of Niklas Luhmann and critical social systems theorists to challenge the commonly held view that the systems-based approach is holistic in nature and necessarily downplays the role of human agency. Theoretically sophisticated and investigating the work of a theorist whose work has until now received insufficient attention in Anglo-American thought, this book will be of interest to those working in the field of social theory as well as scholars concerned with philosophy of social science, the project of analytical sociology, and the nature of the relationship between the natural and social sciences.
