Autrum, M. F. Bennet, B. Diehn, K. Hamdorf, M. Heisenberg, M. Järvilehto, P. Kunze, R. Menzel, W. H. Miller, A. W. Snyder, D. G. Stavenga, M. Yoshida, 2012-12-06 In the comparative physiology of photoreception by the Protista and the invertebrates two aspects are emphasized 1 the diversity of visual processes in these groups and 2 their bearing upon general mechanisms of photoreception Invertebrates have evolved a far greater variety of adaptations than vertebrates modifications aiding survival in the remarkably different biotopes they occupy The number of species in itself suggests this multiformity each of them has peculiarities of its own in morphology as well as in physiology and behavior But these special adaptations are variations on a few great themes Although the catalogue of invertebrate species is immense the literature concerning them nearly rivals it in extent even if one considers only that fraction dealing with visual physiology Taxonomy proceeds by grouping the species categorizing them in genera families orders and progressively larger units Similarly comparative physiology aims at an analogous more or less comprehensive classification This Part A of Volume VII 6 like Part B that follows it emphasizes the broad questions that concern groups larger than the individual species in some cases these questions have general applicability The middle course between approaches that are too specialized and those that are too general is often elusive but here we attempt to follow it The vast number of special adaptations probably as we have said as large as the number of species is beyond the range even of a handbook      The Eye of Istar William Le Queux, 1897 The Eye of Istar follows Zafar Ben A Ziz on his return from London to his home in Omdurman Sudan While traveling through the Sahara Zafar is taken prisoner by the Veiled Men of the Desert and it is at the start of his imprisonment that he meets Azala a Sultan's daughter They fall in love and Zafar is determined to free Azala from her isolated life in a harem But he soon discovers a dark power connected to a mysterious mark shared by the pair that complicates his mission      Wordplay and Metalinguistic / Metadiscursive Reflection Angelika Zirker, Esme Winter-Froemel, 2015-10-16 Wordplay can be seen as a genuine interface phenomenon It can be found both in everyday communication and in literary texts and it can fulfil a range of functions it may be entertaining and comical it may be used to conceal taboo and it may influence the way in which the speaker's character is

perceived Moreover wordplay also reflects on language and communication it reveals surprising alternative readings and emphasizes the phonetic similarity of linguistic signs that also points towards relations on the level of content Wordplay unravels characteristics of literary language in everyday communication and opens up the possibility to analyze literary texts from a linguistic perspective The first two volumes of the series The Dynamics of Wordplay therefore aim at bringing together contributions from linguistics and literary studies focusing on theoretical issues such as basic techniques of wordplay and its relationship to genres and discourse traditions These issues are complemented by a series of case studies on the use of wordplay in individual authors and specific historical contexts The contributions offer a fresh look on the multifaceted dynamics of wordplay in different communicative settings
