Reforming Asian Socialism The Growth Of Market Institutions:

Reforming Asian Socialism John McMillan, Barry Naughton, 1996 Examines the dramatic transformation of Asian communist countries China in particular to vigorous market economies REFORMING ASIAN SOCIALISM: GROWTH OF MARKET INSTITUTIONS. J; NAUGHTON MCMILLAN (B, (ED)), 1996 China's Transition to a Socialist Market Economy

Osman Suliman, 1998-09-17 Exploring China's transition to a socialist market economy this book finds that the recent Chinese experience is unique and unprecedented It seems plausible that the distinctive characteristics of China's market reform have been a result of correcting the big bang approach of Eastern European countries and unique conditions that China possesses For instance China is endowed with a relatively high level of skilled labor and a large workforce Moreover China has been experimenting with reform and profit sharing for a number of years especially in the coastal provinces This book juxtaposes native Chinese experiences with those of academics in the U S It integrates the ideas of those living the experience in China with the perceptions of outside observers who might be able to offer constructive criticism The book covers various topics such as macroeconomic policy reform within economic sectors and strategies for sustainable development while making sure that the reader will not find it difficult to follow the process of reform and the main impediments that China may face Market Institutions in Sub-Saharan Africa

Marcel Fafchamps, 2003-12-05 An analysis of recent data on the economic behavior of market institutions in sub Saharan Africa with implications for future research and current policy In Market Institutions in Sub Saharan Africa Marcel Fafchamps synthesizes the results of recent surveys of indigenous market institutions in twelve countries including Benin Ghana Kenya Madagascar Malawi and Zimbabwe and presents findings about economics exchange in Africa that have implications both for future research and current policy Employing empirical data as well as theoretical models that clarify the data Fafchamps takes as his unifying principle the difficulties of contract enforcement Arguing that in an unpredictable world contracts are not always likely to be respected he shows that contract agreements in sub Saharan Africa are affected by the absence of large hierarchies both corporate and governmental and as a result must depend to a greater degree than in more developed economies on social networks and personal trust Fafchamps considers policy recommendations as they apply to countries in three different stages of development countries with undeveloped market institutions like Ghana countries at an intermediate stage like Kenya and countries with developed market institutions like Zimbabwe Market Institutions in Sub Saharan Africa caps ten years of personal research by the author Fafchamps in collaboration with such institutions as the Africa Division of the World Bank and the International Food Policy Research Institute participated in the surveys of manufacturing firms and agricultural traders that provide the empirical basis for the book The result is a work that makes a significant contribution to research on the continuing economic stagnation of many countries in sub Saharan Africa and is also largely accessible to researchers in other fields and policy professionals China's Rural Market Development in the Reform Era

Him Chung, 2017-11-30 The rural market in China is not only the venue where 60 per cent of the country's 1.3 billion inhabitants buy their daily necessities and sell agricultural products but also a key area of conflict between government control and liberalization policies. Previous research on the topic has adopted a purely economic perspective focusing on macro issues such as price control and grain procurement. This book focuses instead on peasants, the major participants in rural marketing activities. Illustrated by two comparative case studies with a diverse level of development from the Pearl River Delta, one of the most prosperous regions in coastal China, this book investigates the market hierarchy, its change of functions and the interactions between peasants and market outlets. In doing so, it shows how China's rural market district has changed since the Reform and how these changes affect the marketing activities of peasants.

China's Transition to a Global Economy Michael Webber, 2002-12-13. How has China approached the global economy? Webber Wang and Zhu attempt to answer this question through analysis of the concepts of globalization, transition and regionalization. China's approach has been experimental, stressing the liberalization of trade and investment flows and the development of a market economy. By these indexes, globalization in China has been gradual and uneven. Integrating Western social science and Chinese research, this book assesses the nature and effect of globalization in China and its implications.

The Political Economy of Asian Transition from Communism Sujian Guo, 2017-11-28. A comparative study of the political economy of the transition from communism in East and Southeast Asian countries: China, North Korea, Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, addressing the key theoretical questions generated from the debate between shock therapists and gradualists. While accurately defining the pre-reform model, this book explores the causal variables that have contributed to reform efforts within Asia, examining the significance of the sequencing of political and economic transition and the interplay between politics and the economy in determining variations in transition outcomes. Comparing the real-world experiences of transition nations in communist Asia with Eastern Europe, prominent questions are brought to the fore: will market capitalism or market socialism prevail after the grand failure of communism? This book makes an important contribution to the political economy theory of comparative communist and post-communist studies and provides detailed analytical insights that will prove influential in future theoretical work.

The dragon and the elephant Gulati, Ashok, Fan, Shenggen, 2007-11-14. China and India are the most extraordinary economic success stories of the developing world. Both nations' economies have grown dramatically over the past few decades, elevating them from two of the world's poorest countries into projected economic superpowers. This book investigates the reasons for these staggering accomplishments and the lessons that can be applied both to other developing nations and to the problem of poverty that remains in these two countries. The contributors pay particular attention to agriculture and the rural economy, examining how initial conditions and investments and the prioritization and sequencing of different policies and strategies have led to successes and how the agricultural and rural sectors connect to overall economic expansion They also emphasize the importance of anti poverty programs and safety nets in helping poor people escape poverty The book offers a set of policy and strategic options for future growth and poverty reduction These include setting the right priorities for public spending identifying trade and market reforms building social safety nets for the poorest of the poor and building accountable institutions that can provide public goods and services effectively The book concludes by examining future challenges to China and India s economic development such as the need to ensure growth that is sustainable equitable and environmentally friendly The Dragon and the Elephant offers valuable insights to development specialists anxious to multiply the benefits experienced by two of the greatest economic successes in recent times

Worrisome recent economic downturns in Brazil, Russia and even China occurred against the backdrop of domestic issues pertaining to patrimonialism, corruption and informality. Some economies of the European periphery also suffered from similar domestic issues and plunged into recession due to economic crisis and austerity policies implemented in its wake. This book theorises and analyses the evolving nature of capitalism in emerging economies, the BRICs and the European periphery in the face of pressures from globalisation and economic crises. The volume seeks to make sense of these crises and their impact using the framework of comparative capitalism while testing its applicability beyond the advanced industrialised countries for which it was developed. The authors draw on Uwe Becker's open qualitative approach, systematically integrating the state into the analysis and paying close attention to the role of changing ideas, character of international integration, leadership and informality. The contributors analyse different responses to crises by the BRICs and countries of the Southern European periphery as well as respective dimensions of state-business interaction. The findings contribute to theorising varieties of capitalism beyond the OECD world and to developing a dynamic theory of capitalist change in the face of pressures from globalisation and economic crises. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Politics.
