Refugees In Hungary:

The Admission and Integration of Refugees in Europe Sebastian Meyer,Salvatore Fabio Nicolosi,Giacomo Solano,2025-03-31 The Admission and Integration of Refugees in Europe argues for a more interconnected understanding of laws and policies for the admission and integration of refugees and asylum seekers in the European Union Admission and integration normally refer to different phases of the migratory process but this demonstrates that they are inherently interconnected Certain legal statuses conferred in admission procedures are directly relevant for the integration prospects of migrants and the success or failure to integrate has potential repercussions for residence rights although refugees are in that respect better protected than other immigrants Legal pluralism further complicates the European context as admission is often seen as under European Union jurisdiction and integration as a Member State consideration However the book argues that this legal pluralism in fact helps us to better explain how interaction between admission and integration takes place across laws and legal orders Combining broad conceptual and constitutional analysis with closer readings of specific policies and country specific case studies this book demonstrates the potential for specific admission policies to either promote or hinder integration This book will be an important contribution to debates on European asylum and refugee law human rights and migrant integration policy

Refugee Protection Crises and Transit Europe Julija Sardelić,2025-10-01 This open access book presents a socio legal analysis of immediate responses to large scale refugee displacement in Europe after the 1951 Refugee Convention came into force focusing on the countries to which refugees initially fled or through which they passed namely Austria and initially Yugoslavia followed by several of the former Yugoslav countries First it investigates the immediate responses to refugee movements following the suppression of the 1956 Hungarian Revolution by Soviet troops Second it examines the responses to individuals seeking asylum after being displaced during the post Yugoslav wars of the 1990s Third it analyses the responses of the same countries to refugees fleeing Global South countries predominantly Syria Iraq and Afghanistan in 2015 and 2016 Finally it explores how these countries responded to the mass displacement of refugees from Ukraine The book argues that these countries have positioned themselves as transit or temporary protection countries in order to avoid assuming long term responsibility for a larger number of refugees As a consequence they granted various forms of temporary legal status to refugees that differed from the refugee status defined in the 1951 Refugee Convention These legal statuses

were hierarchical in terms of the rights attached to them and racialized with the fewest rights granted to refugees from the Global South and other negatively racialized groups The book traces the usage of self serving politics of diversity and selective memory to legitimise why refugees could not be protected long term in these countries and also why there were such differences in treatment of refugees Humanitarian Aid and Empowerment of Ukrainian Refugees Dorota Moroń, Małgorzata Madej, Judit Csoba, 2024-08-20 The book presents good practices in humanitarian assistance and empowerment of Ukrainian refugees in various areas emergency aid to large groups crossing the border organisation of support in places of temporary stay learning local languages inclusion of children in school and adults in the labour market and inclusion in the local community It indicates the forms of international protection and the scope of their application by migrants from Ukraine and discusses the temporary protection status dedicated to Ukrainian refugees The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of migration and diaspora studies immigration law and public policy America and the Holocaust: War Refugee Board, Hungary David S. Wyman, 1990 The Disaster of European Refugee Policy Marina Lukšič Hacin, Neža Kogovšek Šalamon, Igor Ž. Žagar, 2019-01-29 This volume addresses the mass arrival of migrants and refugees in Europe in 2015 and 2016 and the crisis of response that unfolded across the continent The chapters critically discuss this crisis and help the reader to understand why the refugees and migrants fled what kind of response they faced and what was wrong with the reactions of the states Despite the fact that all the authors are based in Slovenia the volume transcends this particular state and covers theoretical and practical aspects of the crisis which are not geographically limited to only one country or region It addresses a variety of audiences such as students researchers sociologists political scientists lawyers geographers and philosophers and will appeal to those who seek to understand forced migration and refugee protection states responses to migration and asylum seekers and the rise of hate speech racism xenophobia and authoritarianism in Europe Migrants and Refugees M. M. Eboch, 2017-07-15 The images are shocking and upsetting drowned children washing up on beaches dozens of dead bodies being pulled out of tractor trailers a mass of humanity penned up in detention camps and tent cities anti immigrant rallies characterized by fearful and hate filled invective Yet there are also images of refugees being embraced by ordinary citizens and welcomed into their countries their communities even their homes What to do about a growing and endemic refugee crisis and migrant labor population in an age of globalization terrorism and income inequality is a question with no simple answers This volume presents the widest possible range of opinions from reputable sources across the political spectrum and encourages readers to consider all viewpoints before formulating their own reasoned and informed perspective
