The Making of Modern Management John F. Wilson, Andrew Thomson, 2006-08-24 Management has always been part of human organization but it is only in the last two centuries or so that it has been the central driver of economic activity as companies have moved from family firms to hugely complex multinational corporations with many layers of management The term management is commonly used in three ways as a process or activity as a structure in any organization and as a group or class of people carrying out certain roles in an organization This book is the first detailed account of the evolution of management in all three senses The focus is mainly on the UK but throughout the broader question of why corporate management structures developed so impressively in the USA Germany and Japan is borne in mind while arguably little progress was made in this regards in the UK Equally the authors consider why given that management is now so widely studied so little careful research has been undertaken into the evolution of the practice and the profession of management The book is divided into four sections Part One provides An Introduction to Management History Part Two Management and Organization explores the historical development through the 19th and 20th centuries Part Three Managers in Context looks at the social and cultural context of management and managers and Part Four considers three key functional areas labour marketing and accounting and finance This rich detailed and path breaking book will be essential reading for anyone wanting to understand the evolution of management as we now understand it whether academics students or managers themselves

Management Laureates Arthur G. Bedeian, 2018-04-17 First published in 2002 This volume compiles the autobiographies of the management discipline s most distinguished laureates Prior to this publication the available management literature provided little insight into the personal and intellectual lives the frustrations as well as the triumphs of the individuals in the management discipline Although such understanding could be conveyed in many forms perhaps the most intimate and fascinating of these for gaining behind the scenes insights is the autobiography Thus the autobiographies in this volume as in the five companion volumes offer the reader not only a glimpse of the subjective determinants and personal experiences of the management discipline's most distinguished laureates but also a deeper understanding of what management is and what it is becoming. The various accounts reflect a diversity of approaches, interests, and experiences.

Organizations and Communication Technology Janet Fulk, Charles W. Steinfield, 1990-03
How do technology and organization interact to shape organizational structures and processes? What organizational, political, and social processes constrain technological development? What forces shape the articulation of organizational and technological systems? Answering these and other pivotal questions, this volume centres on the role of theory for advancing our knowledge of communication technology in organizations at several levels: micro, group, and macro. The distinguished contributors examine richly diverse topics including telecommunications, communication networks, and new media; the use of group decision support systems and discretionary databases.

Risks, Dangers, and Rewards in the Nova Scotia Offshore Fishery Marian Binkley, 1995-09-27
According to Labour Canada, workers in the offshore fishery are more likely to be injured than workers in mining, construction, or forestry. Yet until recently, these casualties at sea have been largely ignored by government and labour organizations. Risks, Dangers, and Rewards in the Nova Scotia Offshore Fishery describes the hidden cost paid by workers in the Nova Scotia offshore fishery: a cost measured not in dollars and cents but in deaths and injuries. In this comprehensive study, Marian Binkley documents the level of risk and assesses the general health and stress level of workers in the Nova Scotia offshore fishery. She considers shipboard working environment, stress, accidents, injuries, and general health, safety awareness, job satisfaction, and family life, and the impact on working conditions of government resource policies and companies' scientific management strategies. Using statistical analysis, participant observation, surveys, and interviews, Binkley establishes that factors such as technological developments, management changes, and home and community life affect the immediate work experience of fishers and can increase the dangers of an already hazardous occupation.
