Lothagam Meave G. Leakey, John Michael Harris, 2003 Few aspects of American military history have been as vigorously debated as Harry Truman's decision to use atomic bombs against Japan In this carefully crafted volume Michael Kort describes the wartime circumstances and thinking that form the context for the decision to use these weapons surveys the major debates related to that decision and provides a comprehensive collection of key primary source documents that illuminate the behavior of the United States and Japan during the closing days of World War II Kort opens with a summary of the debate over Hiroshima as it has evolved since 1945 He then provides a historical overview of the events in question beginning with the decision and program to build the atomic bomb Detailing the sequence of events leading to Japan's surrender he revisits the decisive battles of the Pacific War and the motivations of American and Japanese leaders Finally Kort examines ten key issues in the discussion of Hiroshima and guides readers to relevant primary source documents scholarly books and articles

Hominin Environments in the East African Pliocene René Bobe, Zeresenay Alemseged, Anna K. Behrensmeyer, 2007-09-08 This volume presents the work of researchers at many sites spanning the East African Pliocene The authors take a broad approach that seeks to compare paleoenvironmental and paleoecological patterns across localities and among various taxonomic groups This volume aims to synthesize large amounts of faunal data and to present the evolution of East African vertebrates in the context of environmental and climatic changes during the Pliocene

Wiley-Blackwell Encyclopedia of Human Evolution Bernard Wood, 2011-03-31 This comprehensive A to Z encyclopedia provides extensive coverage of important scientific terms related to improving our understanding of how we evolved Specifically the 5 000 entries in this two volume set cover evidence and methods used to investigate the relationships among the living great apes evidence about what makes the behavior of modern humans distinctive and evidence about the evolutionary history of that distinctiveness as well as information about modern methods used to trace the recent evolutionary history of modern human populations This text provides a resource for everyone studying the emergence of Homo sapiens Visit the companion site http://www.woodhumanevolution.com/target\_blank to browse additional references and updates from this comprehensive encyclopedia

Evolution of the Human Diet Peter S. Ungar, 2007 We are interested in the evolution of hominin diets for several reasons One is the fundamental concern over our present day eating habits and the consequences of our societal choices such as obesity prevalent in some cultures and starvation in others Another is that humans have learned to feed themselves in extremely varied environments and these adaptations which are fundamentally different from those of our closest biological relatives have to have had historical roots of varying depth The third and the reason why most paleoanthropologists are interested in this question is that a species trophic level and feeding adaptations can have a strong effect on body size locomotion life history strategies geographic range habitat choice and social behavior Diet is key to understanding the ecology and evolution of our distant ancestors and their kin the early hominins A study of the range of foods eaten by our progenitors underscores just how unhealthy many of our diets are today This volume brings together authorities from disparate fields to offer new insights into the diets of our ancestors Paleontologists archaeologists primatologists nutritionists and other researchers all contribute pieces to the puzzle This volume has at its core four main sections Reconstructed diets based on hominin fossils tooth size shape structure wear and chemistry mandibular biomechanics Archaeological evidence of subsistence stone tools and modified bones Models of early hominin diets based on the diets of living primates both human and non human paleoecology and energetics Nutritional analyses and their implications for evolutionary medicine New techniques for gleaned information from fossil teeth bones and stone tools new theories stemming from studies of paleoecology and new models coming from analogy with modern humans and other primates all contribute to our understanding When these approaches are brought together they offer an impressive glimpse into the lives of our distant ancestors The contributions in this volume explore the frontiers of our knowledge in each of these disciplines as they address the knowns the unknowns and the unknowables of the evolution of hominin diets

Handbook of Paleoanthropology Winfried Henke, Ian Tattersall, 2007-05-10 This 3 volume handbook brings together contributions by the world's leading specialists that reflect the broad spectrum of modern palaeoanthropology thus presenting an indispensable resource for professionals and students alike Vol 1 reviews principles methods and approaches recounting recent advances and state of the art knowledge in phylogenetic analysis palaeoecology and evolutionary theory and philosophy Vol 2 examines primate origins evolution behaviour and adaptive variety emphasizing integration of fossil data with contemporary knowledge of the behaviour and ecology of living primates in natural environments Vol 3 deals with fossil and molecular evidence for the evolution of Homo sapiens and its fossil relatives

The Emergence of Humans Patricia J. Ash, David J. Robinson, 2011-09-20 The Emergence of Humans is an accessible informative introduction to the scientific study of human evolution It takes the reader through time following the emergence of the modern human species Homo sapiens from primate roots Acknowledging the controversy surrounding the interpretation of the fossil record the authors present a balanced approach in an effort to do justice to different views Each chapter covers a significant time period of evolutionary history and includes relevant techniques from other disciplines that have applications to the field of human evolution Self assessment questions linked to learning outcomes are provided for each chapter together with further reading and reference to key sources in the primary literature The book will thus be effective both as a conventional textbook and for independent study Written by two authors with a wealth of teaching experience The Emergence of Humans will prove invaluable to students in the biological and natural sciences needing a clear balanced introduction to the study of human evolution Homo erectus W. Henry Gilbert, Berhane Asfaw, 2009-02-04 This volume the first in a series devoted to the paleoanthropological resources of the Middle Awash Valley of Ethiopia studies Homo erectus a close relative of Homo sapiens Written by a team of highly regarded scholars this book provides the first detailed descriptions photographs and analysis of the fossil vertebrates from elephants and hyenas to humans from the Daka Member of the Bouri Formation of the Afar a place renowned for an abundant and lengthy record of human ancestors These fossils contribute to our understanding human evolution and the associated fauna provide new information about the distribution and variability of Pleistocene mammals in eastern Africa The contributors are all active researchers who worked on the paleontology and geology of these unique deposits Here they have combined their disparate efforts into a single volume making the original research results accessible to both the specialist and the general reader The volume synthesizes environmental backdrop and anatomical detail to open an unparalleled window on the African Pleistocene and its inhabitants Ardipithecus kadabba Yohannes Haile-Selassie, Giday WoldeGabriel, 2023-12-22 The second volume in a series dedicated to fossil discoveries made in the Afar region of Ethiopia this work contains the definitive description of the geological context and paleoenvironment of the early hominid Ardipithecus kadabba This research by an international team describes Middle Awash late Miocene faunal assemblages recovered from sediments firmly dated to between 5.2 and 5.8 million years ago Compared to other assemblages of similar age the Middle Awash record is unparalleled in taxonomic diversity composed of 2,760 specimens representing at least sixty five mammalian genera This comprehensive evaluation of the vertebrates from the end of the Miocene in Africa provides detailed morphological and taxonomic descriptions of dozens of taxa including species new to science It also incorporates results from analyses of paleoenvironment paleobiogeography biochronology and faunal turnover around the Pliocene Miocene boundary opening a new window on the evolution of mammals African fauna and its environments The second volume in a series dedicated to fossil discoveries made in the Afar region of Ethiopia this work contains the definitive description of the geological context and paleoenvironment of the early hominid Ardipithecus kadabba This research Evolution and Fossil Record of African Proboscidea William J. Sanders, 2023-09-15 This book details the long diverse and complex phylogenetic history of elephants and their fossil relatives the Proboscidea whose origin is deeply embedded some

60 million years ago in Africa Most of the major evolutionary events of proboscideans occurred in Africa and these are examined in their geological paleoecological geographic and faunal contexts Updated information about feeding adaptations taxonomy and systematics genetics and site occurrences is included and summarized in tables figures and charts This is the first comprehensive review of African proboscideans and illustrates the need to more actively protect elephants and ensure their survival in modern ecosystems Key Features Provides a comprehensive systematic review of the African proboscidean fossil record Includes a summary of taxonomy geochronology biogeography and morphology Documents major faunal events including those associated with hominin origins Synthesizes new data from genomic isotopic and microware analyses Emphasizes the role of elephants in ecosystems and the importance of conservation

The First Humans Frederick E. Grine, John G Fleagle, Richard E. Leakey, 2009-05-24 There are some issues in human paleontology that seem to be timeless Most deal with the origin and early evolution of our own genus something about which we should care Some of these issues pertain to taxonomy and systematics How many species of Homo were there in the Pliocene and Pleistocene How do we identify the earliest members the genus Homo If there is more than one Plio Pleistocene species how do they relate to one another and where and when did they evolve Other issues relate to questions about body size proportions and the functional adaptations of the locomotor skeleton When did the human postcranial Bauplan evolve and for what reasons What behaviors and what behavioral limitations can be inferred from the postcranial bones that have been attributed to Homo habilis and Homo erectus Still other issues relate to growth development and life history strategies and the biological and archeological evidence for diet and behavior in early Homo It is often argued that dietary change played an important role in the origin and early evolution of our genus with stone tools opening up scavenging and hunting opportunities that would have added meat protein to the diet of Homo. Still other issues relate to the environmental and climatic context in which this genus evolved.

Paleontology and Geology of Laetoli: Human Evolution in Context Terry Harrison, 2011-01-27

This volume 2 and its companion volume 1 present the results of new investigations into the geology, paleontology and paleoecology of the early hominin site of Laetoli in northern Tanzania. The site is one of the most important paleontological and paleoanthropological sites in Africa, worldrenowned for the discovery of fossils of the early hominin Australopithecus afarensis as well as remarkable trails of its footprints. The first volume provides new evidence on the geology, geochronology, ecology, ecomorphology and taphonomy of the site. The second volume describes newly discovered fossil hominins from Laetoli belonging to Australopithecus afarensis and Paranthropus aethiopicus and presents detailed information on the systematics and paleobiology of the diverse associated fauna. Together these contributions provide one of the most comprehensive accounts of a fossil hominin site and they offer important new insights into the early stages of human evolution and its context.
