

1001 DARK & NIGHTS

A circular inset within the zero of the title '1001' shows a man and a woman in a romantic embrace. The man is shirtless and has a beard, while the woman has long blonde hair and is wearing a patterned top. They are both smiling and looking at each other. The background of the circle is a bright, hazy sky.

Love In Hazard:

Disenchanted Modernity in Robert Kroetsch's The Studhorse Man Francis Zichy, 2010 This book undertakes a detailed reading of Robert Kroetsch's The Studhorse Man examining this Canadian novel in its transnational historical and socio-cultural context. Key subject headings are biology and culture, sex and gender, eugenics and contraception, writing and reading. The overarching theme is disenchanted modernity in the twentieth century: the systematic displacement of the divine and natural order by a humanly ordained social regime and by forms of social engineering that brought to bear the full force of modern science invasively to alter the most fundamental conditions of human life. The more immediate literary frames of reference are Greek mythology, early Christian debates on the body and marriage, and the lore of the North American Aboriginal trickster as these are deployed and alluded to in Kroetsch's novel. In establishing the sources and contexts of The Studhorse Man, this study examines Robert Kroetsch's early drafts of the novel and his many notes, taken and clippings assembled during its composition. An effort has been made to appeal to a wide range of general and academic readers alike by avoiding specialized jargon and adopting a cross-disciplinary approach. This book will be of interest to scholars of literature and literary theory and of use in courses on literature and the novel on masculinity and gender studies and on cultural history in the twentieth century.

Hazard's Register of Pennsylvania, 1831 For the Love of Mother Michael Scott Curnes, 2011-03 Under a cloak of what cynics refer to as the sweeping stupidity that followed September 11, 2001, while senators and representatives were working out harmonies for their newest rendition of God Bless America, a pair of Executive Orders slipped out of the White House establishing the Patriot Act and the Department of Homeland Security: the first expanding the definition of terrorism to include domestic acts against citizens and government interests and the second creating a bureaucratic juggernaut of twenty-two agencies with over 200,000 employees. Just as staggering in the Pacific Northwest more than 250 concrete dams regulate a watershed the size of France, choking the life out of tributaries that barely feed the 1,243-mile-long Columbia River. The fourteen hydroelectric dams on the Columbia's main stem have contorted America's fourth largest river into a system of sluggish slack water reservoirs that harnesses nearly a third of all the hydropower potential in the U.S. but at the biological expense of a now decimated millennia-old salmon run. Against this concrete river stopping backdrop a pair of monkey wrenchers known only as Hooknose and Hazard polka-dot the Pacific Northwest with hits of eco-sabotage intending to stop the industrial annihilation of the planet in its bulldozer tracks. These elusive characters, unknowingly manipulated by a master puppeteer, are heading for a stumble that will make 9/11 look like it was little more than a crack in the firmament that is, if they can navigate themselves out of the way of a cresting tidal wave of red tape. Michael Scott Curnes lifts the cloak on domestic terrorism to offer a perverted glimpse at the extremes to which both environmental activists and the government of the day will go in their eco-tug-of-war for The Love of Mother.
