Military In The Development Process A Guide To Issues:

The Military in the Development Process, 1981 The Structure of the Defense Industry Nicole Ball, Milton Leitenberg, 2021-05-30 Proponents of arms control and disarmament are often confronted with the argument that reductions in defense expenditure lead to cutbacks in military industries and thus to economic hardship While a reduction in defense production would cause some economic dislocation this would be mitigated by the ability of the economy to adapt to changing patterns of production This book first published in 1983 assesses the likely effects of reductions in defense industries by an examination of the roles these industries play in national economies Each chapter discusses industry employment output research and development capital value profitability concentration and competition internal organization and regional employment concentration Other questions considered include the economic importance of weapons exports the defense industry as a leading edge in maintaining national technological capabilities and the reliance of individual firms on defense contracting , Handbook of Military Administration Jeffrey A. Weber, Johan Eliasson, 2007-12-07 While policy makers are perpetually conceptualizing new reform packages the actual enactment of those reforms is typically more challenging Remarkably the one public institution that is able to meet that challenge is also the largest The United States Department of Defense which employs over 600 000 people and deals with 500 billion in fundin The Economics of Defence, Disarmament, and Peace Keith Hartley, Nick Hooper, 1990 This major reference work is a comprehensive critical guide to the large and growing literature on the economics of defence disarmament and peace It covers the cost of defence spending and its effects on growth investment unemployment technical change and other aspects of a nation s economic performance It includes material on the determinants of defence spending namely defence budgets programme budgeting and procurement policy It also deals with the economic impact of arms limitation disarmament and the conversion from military production to products with peaceful uses Recommended Reference Books for Small and Medium-Sized Libraries and Media Centers, 1984 Bohdan S.
