Japanese Army Handbook 1939-1945 Lieutenant Colonel George Forty OBE, 2002-12-16 This is an insight into the most feared army of World War II The Japanese Imperial Army grew from 1.5 million men in 1939 to 5.5 million men by the end of the war Their highly successful campaigns in the Far East and the Pacific at the beginning of World War II were every bit as spectacular as those of the Germans in Europe and they earned an enviable reputation as expert jungle fighters which it took some years for the Allies to match Their code of honour also made them extremely cruel enemies to prisoners and civilians alike while their Kamikaze suicidal tendencies meant they would automatically fight to the last without any thought of surrender Fully illustrated with rare archive photographs this is a comprehensive study of the army The author describes how they mobilized and trained their soldiers and looks at their organizational structures from high command down to divisional level and below Also included are uniforms equipment all kinds of weapons ranging from tanks and artillery technical equipment tactics symbology and vehicle markings

Operation C3 John Burt, 2023-05-04 Burt offers an account of how an invasion might have unfolded and its consequences by drawing on parallel events at other times and places Definitely worth a read The NYMAS Review When writing his memoirs after World War II German Generalfeldmarschall Albert Kesselring stated Italy's missing her chance to occupy the island of Malta at the start of hostilities will go down in history as a fundamental blunder It's easy to see why this tiny 95 square mile island held such a prominent place in the war's Mediterranean Theater Located almost halfway between the British bases of Gibraltar and Alexandria Egypt and just 60 miles south of Sicily her airfields and naval base stood directly in the path of Italy's and her German partner's line of communication from Europe to North Africa Operation C3 is a detailed study of the Axis 1942 plan to invade and take the island of Malta The book examines the future combatants up to the Axis capture of Tobruk in June 1942 The book then provides a realistic assessment of what would have had to happen if the Axis had decided to launch the invasion Operation C3 then provides a day by day battle narrative of the invasion as if it had occurred on Saturday August 15 1942 The battle narrative is based on the combatant's actual plans from the Italian and Maltese archives and the realistic appraisal of what could have happened when those plans collide A Reality Analysis section is added after the battle narrative to discuss what really happened after Tobruk fell and why Operation C3 was never

Christie,2015-11-06 The Italian Army developed a sound and unique combined arms doctrine for mechanized warfare in 1938 This new doctrine was called the War of Rapid Decision It involved the use of mechanized warfare in the Italian version of the blitzkrieg This doctrine evolved from the lessons learned in the Italian Ethiopian War of 1935 to 1936 and the Spanish Civil War of 1936 1939 With Italy s entry into World War II military operations ensued along the Libyan Egyptian border between the Italian 10th Army and a much smaller British Western Desert Force The Italian Army in Libya outnumbered the British Army in Egypt by a ratio of four to one The setting seemed to be ideal for the employment of the War of Rapid Decisions Moreover Marshal Rodolfo Graziani who was the commander of the Italian 10th Army in North Africa during its first campaign in the western desert had pioneered this new form of mechanized warfare during the Ethiopian War Surprisingly the Italian forces in Libya did not employ their new doctrine reverting instead to more conventional techniques of mass. It was Graziani's failure to utilize the doctrine which he had helped to develop that led to Italy's embarrassing defeat in 1941. The Sdkfz 251 half-track was one of the most versatile armored vehicles produced by either side in the Second World War. Designed by the firm of Hannoversche Maschinenbau AG or Hanomag, production ran to over 15,000 vehicles and it was eventually built as twenty-three separate variants serving as not only a personnel carrier but also a command vehicle, mobile rocket launcher, armored ambulance and bridge layer. In his first book in the LandCraft series, Dennis Oliver examines the Sdkfz 251 variants armed with the 7.5cm gun initially used as an infantry support and reconnaissance half-track and later as a tank killer as the result of Hitler's desperation to arm as many vehicles as possible with anti-tank weapons. Drawing on official documentation and unit histories, Dennis investigates the formations that operated these deservedly famous vehicles and uses archive photos and extensively researched color illustrations to examine the markings, camouflage and technical aspects of the Sdkfz 251/9 and 251/22 half-tracks that served on the Western and Eastern Fronts in the last months of the war. A key section of his book displays available model kits and aftermarket products complemented by a gallery of beautifully constructed and painted models in various scales. Technical details as well as modifications introduced during production and in the field are also examined, providing everything the modeler needs to recreate an accurate representation of these historic tanks. United States Army in World War II, 1955 American Tanks & AFVs of World War II Michael Green, 2014-07-20. A comprehensive highly illustrated study of US tanks and other armoured vehicles used in World War II. The entry of the US into World War II provided the Allies with the industrial might to finally take the war to German and Japanese forces across the world. Central to this was the focus of the American military industrial complex on the manufacture of tanks and armoured fighting vehicles. Between 1939 and 1945, 88,140 tanks and 18,620 other armored vehicles were built, almost twice the number that Germany and Great Britain combined were able to supply In this lavishly illustrated volume armour expert Michael Green examines the dizzying array of machinery fielded by the US Army from the famed M4 Sherman M3 Stuart and M3 Lee through to the half tracks armored cars self propelled artillery tank destroyers armored recovery vehicles and tracked landing vehicles that provided the armoured fist that the Allies needed to break Axis resistance in Europe and the Pacific Publishing in paperback for the first time and packed with historical and contemporary colour photography this encyclopedic new study details the design development and construction of these vehicles their deployment in battle and the impact that they had on the outcome of the war
