The Dhaka University Studies, 2009 The MDGs, Capabilities and Human Rights Sakiko Fukuda-Parr, Alicia Yamin, 2017-10-02 Heralded as opening a new chapter in international development the Millennium Development Goals MDGs have led to the use of global goals and quantitative targets as a central instrument for defining global priorities This book explores the implications of this new approach How does target setting influence policy priorities of national governments bilateral donors multilateral agencies NGOs and other stakeholders What are the intended and unintended consequences Why is the use of numeric indicators effective How does quantification reshape meanings of challenges such as women s empowerment Building on 11 case studies and a conceptual framework this book provides a goal by goal analysis by leading specialists in the relevant fields These specialists analyse the choices made as well as the empirical and normative effects of the MDGs to offer insights for a more rigorous use of indicators and cautions on their limitations and perverse consequences This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Human Development and Capabilities

Pathways for Sustainable Sanitation Arno Rosemarin, Nelson Ekane, Ian Caldwell, Elisabeth Kvarnstrom, Jennifer McConville, Cecilia Ruben, Madeleine Fogde, 2008-11-01 The report is a product arising from the work of the Sustainable Sanitation Alliance which was initiated prior to the International Year of Sanitation in 2008 in an attempt to inject sustainable development ideas into the sanitation sector It functions as a vision document for those policymakers researchers and practitioners that are striving towards fundamental reform and improvements within the sanitation sector in both rural and urban populations in all countries of the world It reviews the global progress being made towards achieving the Millennium Development Goal MDG target on sanitation A literature review is presented on sanitation provision including human health impacts and the estimated costs and benefits of achieving the MDG target The report also provides a critique in that the UN has not yet introduced the concept of sustainability into the MDG programme in general and in particular into the sanitation sector which is highly dysfunctional and suffering from limited political leadership at both the local and global levels It introduces the various sustainable sanitation options available and what approaches can be taken to improve sanitation systems not just toilets which are only a small part of the overall system of food nutrients and water cycles The study estimates the numbers of urban and rural households including slum populations that are being targeted in all world regions It also evaluates the historic trends in morbidity and mortality linked to diarrhoea arising from lack of functioning sanitation services comparing these to the UN data on sanitation coverage The report estimates the potential fertiliser replacement capacity that reuse of human excreta can have for all world regions Finally it provides a vision for future development within the sector where more sustainable options like source separation and reuse are promoted giving positive environmental or green impacts but also catalysing greater involvement and understanding on the part of individuals in society
