

THE MIMIC MEN

V. S. Naipaul

The narrator of The Mimic Men is in a reading hotel on the outskirts of London, writing an account of his life. He has known London as a student and as a celebrity. There too is a colonial politician in exile from Barbados, the West Indian island where he was born.

He starts by recalling his first experience of the city, his arrival from a Barbados where his population seemed to consist largely of family lineages. From there he ranges as back into his childhood and forward into his marriage with an Englishwoman and his return to Barbados, where he was one of the young rich set and where his political career ran its course. Gradually the complete picture is built up: the nature of the society which produced him, the many people whose lives have interwoven with his, the man's own character, the way events have worked on him and he has worked on events.

It would be possible to describe this as a novel about London, about the disintegration of empire, about order and disorder, about glories and about self-discovery. All these descriptions would be true but incomplete. It would be possible to say that it is fiercely funny or that it is deeply sad: again, both are true but inadequate. It is a work of extraordinary complexity, disturbing and illuminating in only a great work of fiction can be. It proves that impression through V. S. Naipaul's achievement has already been, he is still advancing from it.

Book Prices: Used and Rare, 1994 Edward N. Zempel, 1994      Post-War British Literature and the "End of Empire" Matthew Whittle, 2017-01-03 This book examines literary texts by British colonial servant and settler writers including Anthony Burgess Graham Greene William Golding and Alan Sillitoe who depicted the impact of decolonization in the newly independent colonies and at home in Britain The end of the British Empire was one of the most significant and transformative events in twentieth century history marking the beginning of a new world order and having an indelible impact on British culture and society Literary responses to this moment by those from within Britain offer an enlightening and often overlooked exploration of the influence of decolonization on received notions of race and class while also prefiguring conceptions of multiculturalism As Matthew Whittle argues in this sweeping study these works not only view decolonization within its global context alongside the aftermath of the Second World War the rise of America and mass immigration but often propose a solution to imperial decline through cultural renewal      ,      Diasporic (dis)locations Brinda J. Mehta, 2004 Indo Caribbean women writers are virtually invisible in the literary landscape because of cultural and social inhibitions and literary chauvinism Until recently the richness and particularities of the experiences of these writers in the field of literature and literary studies were compromised by stereotypical representations of the Indo Caribbean women that were narrated from a purely masculine or an Afrocentric point of view This book fills an important gap in an important but underestimated emergent field The book explores how cultural traditions and female modes of opposition to patriarchal control were transplanted from India and rearticulated in the Indo Caribbean diaspora to determine whether the idea of cultural continuity is in fact a postcolonial reality or a fictionalized myth kala pani to Trinidad and Guyana provided courage determination self reliance and sexual independence to their literary granddaughters who in turn used the kala pani as the necessary language and frame of reference to position Indo Caribbean female subjectivity with equating writing as a public declaration of one's identity and right to claim creative agency The book is of critical interest to those interested in twentieth century literary studies Caribbean studies gender studies ethnic studies and cultural studies      AB Bookman's Weekly , 1996      Dad's Guide to Pregnancy For Dummies, UK Edition Roger Henderson, Matthew M. Kathy-Ann Tan, 2015-12-07 Explores how traditional notions of citizenship are contested and altered through literature Literature has always played a central role in creating and disseminating culturally specific notions of citizenship nationhood and belonging In Reconfiguring Citizenship and National Identity in the North American Literary Imagination author Kathy Ann Tan investigates metaphors configurations parameters and articulations of U S and Canadian citizenship that are enacted renegotiated and revised in modern literary texts particularly during periods of emergence and crisis Tan brings together for the first time a selection of canonical and lesser known U S and Canadian writings for critical consideration She begins by exploring literary depiction of willful or wayward citizens and those with precarious bodies that are viewed as threatening undesirable unacceptable including refugees and asylum seekers undocumented migrants deportees and stateless people She also considers the rights to citizenship and political membership claimed by queer bodies and an examination of new and alternative forms of citizenship such as denizenship urban citizenship diasporic citizenship and Indigenous citizenship With case studies based on works by a diverse collection of authors including Nathaniel Hawthorne Djuna Barnes Etel Adnan Sarah Schulman Walt Whitman Gail Scott and Philip Roth Tan uncovers alternative forms of collectivity community and nation across a broad range of perspectives In line with recent cross disciplinary explorations in the field Reconfiguring Citizenship and National Identity in the North American Literary Imagination shows citizenship as less of a fixed or static legal entity and more as a set of symbolic and cultural practices Scholars of literary studies cultural studies and citizenship studies will be grateful for Tan s illuminating study      Global Citizenship and the Legacy of Empire

April Biccum, 2010 This book investigates the parallels between mainstream development discourse and colonial discourse as theorized in the work of Homi Bhabha Gayatri Spivak and Edward Said Aiming to repoliticize post colonial theory by applying its understandings to contemporary political discourses author April Biccum critically examines the ways in which development in its current form has recently begun to be promoted among the metropolitan public Biccum contends that what has begun is a sustained marketing campaign for development that is a repetition augmentation and ultimately much greater success of the work of the Empire Marketing Board of 1926 Demonstrating how this marketing campaign for development attempts to facilitate support for neo liberal globalization Biccum contends that this theatre of legitimation is emerging in response to growing critical voices and counter hegemonic activity on the international stage Featuring in depth analyses of the UK cultural values DfID the commemoration of the slave trade and campaigns including Live8 and Make Poverty History this book will be of interest to students and scholars of postcolonial studies development studies and international political economy It will also offer insights valuable to a wider range of subjects including critical theory and globalization studies      The Literature of the Indian Diaspora Vijay Mishra, 2007-09-12 The Literature of the Indian Diaspora constitutes a major study of the literature and other cultural texts of the Indian diaspora. It is also an important contribution to diaspora theory in general. Examining both the old Indian diaspora of early capitalism following the abolition of slavery and the new diaspora linked to movements of late capital, Mishra argues that a full understanding of the Indian diaspora can only be achieved if attention is paid to the particular locations of both the old and the new in nation states. Applying a theoretical framework based on trauma, mourning, impossible mourning, spectres, identity, travel, translation, and recognition, Mishra uses the term 'imaginary' to refer to any ethnic enclave in a nation state that defines itself consciously or unconsciously as a group in displacement. He examines the works of key writers, many now based across the globe in Canada, Australia, America, and the UK: V. S. Naipaul, Salman Rushdie, M. G. Vassanji, Shani Mootoo, Bharati Mukherjee, David Dabydeen, Rohinton Mistry, and Hanif Kureishi, among them, to show how they exemplify both the diasporic imaginary and the respective traumas of the old and new Indian diasporas.

Publishing the Postcolonial Gail Low, 2020-07-24. This book explores how writers such as Amos Tutuola, George Lamming, Samuel Selvon, V. S. Naipaul, Chinua Achebe, Derek Walcott, Kamau Brathwaite, and Wole Soyinka came to be published in London in important educational series such as the Three Crown Series and African Writers Series. Low takes account of recent debates in the discipline of book history, especially issues that deal with social, cultural, and economic questions of authorship, publishing histories, canon formation, and the production, distribution, and reception of texts in the literary marketplace. Searching publishing archives for readers' reports, editorial correspondence, and interventions, this book represents a necessary exploration of postwar publishing contexts and the dissemination of texts from London that is crucial to literary histories of the postcolonial book. Taken together as a postwar generation, this cohort of now canonical writers helped imagine their respective national communities; yet their intellectual labors entered an elite transnational literary circuit and correspondingly were transformed into textual commodities by the economic, social, cultural, and institutional transactions that were part of an expanding print capitalism.

Britain Through Muslim Eyes Claire Chambers, 2015-07-30. What did Britain look like to the Muslims who visited and lived in the country in increasing numbers from the late eighteenth century onwards? This book is a literary history of representations of Muslims in Britain from the late eighteenth century to the eve of Salman Rushdie's publication of The Satanic Verses in 1988.

Black British Literature Mark Stein, 2004. In this fascinating book, Mark Stein examines black British literature, centering on a body of work created by British-based writers with African, South Asian, or Caribbean cultural backgrounds. Linking black British literature to the bildungsroman genre, this study examines the transformative potential inscribed in and induced by a heterogeneous body of texts. Capitalizing on their plural cultural attachments, these texts portray and purvey the transformation of post-imperial Britain. Stein locates his wide-ranging analysis in both a historical and a literary context. He argues that a cross-cultural and interdisciplinary approach is essential to understanding post-colonial culture and society. The book relates black British literature to ongoing debates about cultural diversity and thereby offers a way of reading a highly popular but as yet relatively uncharted field of cultural production With the collapse of its empire with large scale immigration from former colonies and with ever increasing cultural diversity Britain underwent a fundamental makeover in the second half of the twentieth century This volume cogently argues that black British literature is not only a commentator on and a reflector of this makeover but that it is simultaneously an agent that is integral to the processes of cultural and social change Conceptualizing the novel of transformation this comprehensive study of British black literature provides a compelling analytic framework for charting these processes     The English Novel of History and Society, 1940-80 Patrick Swinden,1984-08-02     LGBT Transnational Identity and the Media Christopher Pullen,2012-02-29 Offering a critical introduction into LGBT lesbian gay bisexual and transgender transnational identity in the media this book examines performances and representations within documentary and fiction oriented texts An interdisciplinary approach is put forward revealing new potentials for non western queer identity     Encyclopedia of Post-Colonial Literatures in English Eugene Benson,L.W. Conolly,2004-11-30 Documents the history and development of Post colonial literatures in English together with English and American literature and includes original research relating to the literatures of some 50 countries and territories In more than 1 600 entries written by more than 600 internationally recognized scholars it explores the effect of the colonial and post colonial experience on literatures in English worldwide     Contesting Race and Citizenship Camilla Hawthorne,2022-07-15 Contesting Race and Citizenship is an original study of Black politics and varieties of political mobilization in Italy Although there is extensive research on first generation immigrants and refugees who traveled from Africa to Italy there is little scholarship about the experiences of Black people who were born and raised in Italy Camilla Hawthorne focuses on the ways Italians of African descent have become entangled with processes of redefining the legal racial cultural and economic boundaries of Italy and by extension of Europe itself Contesting Race and Citizenship opens discussions of the so called migrant crisis by focusing on a generation of Black people who although born or raised in Italy have been thrust into the same racist xenophobic political climate as the immigrants and refugees who are arriving in Europe from the African continent Hawthorne traces not only mobilizations for national citizenship but also the more capacious transnational Black diasporic possibilities that emerge when activists confront the ethical and political limits of citizenship as a means for securing meaningful lasting racial justice possibilities that are based on shared critiques of the racial state and shared histories of racial capitalism and colonialism     Reflections for Living and Growing Webster Edwards,2018-09-07 These reflections can be described as a personal journey wrestling with varying experiences in order to gain some existential understanding of life They were written over a period of ten years during which time they were shared with a wide cross section of persons both in Jamaica and overseas The contents are varied incorporating real life experiences during which the author assumed the role of student learning from the inexhaustible examples from persons who can be described as living at the margin of our society     Men & Masculinities Michael S. Kimmel,Amy B. Aronson,2003-12-11 The first encyclopedia to analyze summarize and explain the complexities of men's lives and the idea of modern manhood. The process of making masculinity visible has been going on for over two decades and has produced a prodigious and interesting body of work. But until now the subject has had no authoritative reference source. Men Masculinities, a pioneering two-volume work, corrects the oversight by summarizing the latest historical, biological, cross-cultural, psychological, and sociological research on the subject. It also looks at literature, art, and music from a gender perspective. The contributors are experts in their specialties, and their work is directed, organized, and coedited by one of the premier scholars in the field, Michael Kimmel. The coverage brings together for the first time considerable knowledge of men and manhood, focusing on such areas as sexual violence, intimacy, pornography, homophobia, sports, profeminist men, rituals, sexism, and many other important subjects. Clearly, this unique reference is a valuable guide to students, teachers, writers, policymakers, journalists, and others who seek a fuller understanding of gender in the United States.
