Mina Tannenbaum:

Cinema and the Second Sex Carrie Tarr, Brigitte Rollet, 2016-10-06 Women's filmmaking in France has been a source of both delight and despair. On the one hand the numbers are impressive: over 250 feature length films were made by over 100 women directors in France in the 1980s and 1990s. On the other hand despite the heritage of French feminism French women directors characteristically disclaim their gender as a significant factor in their filmmaking. This incisive study provides an informative critical guide to this major body of work exploring the boundaries between personal films, intimate psychological dramas relating to key stages in life and genre films which demonstrate women's ability to appropriate and rework popular genres. It analyzes the effects of postfeminism, women's desire to enter the mainstream and the impact of a new generation of filmmakers enabling readers to take stock of the wealth and diversity of women's contribution to French cinema during the 1980s and 1990s.

In Search of Cinema Bert Cardullo, 2004 In Search of Cinema chronicles the vitality of international film art in the last two decades. At a time when the movie review has degenerated into mere publicity for Hollywood pictures and film scholarship has become entangled in its own pseudo-scientific discourse, Bert Cardullo reclaims the territory of a certain type of film critic somewhere between a reviewer-journalist and a scholar-theorist. With elegance, clarity and rigour he offers close readings of individual films to show how moviemakers use the resources of the medium to pursue complex, significant human goals. The essays collected here reflect the spectacular rise of Iranian cinema in recent years as well as the strong contributions of contemporary filmmakers from countries such as Belgium, Canada, China, Israel, Lebanon, Scotland and Spain. But In Search of Cinema does not neglect the best recent films from major film-producing nations like the United States, France and Italy and includes retrospective pieces on the careers of Ingmar Bergman and Woody Allen as well as several essays on the interrelationship between film form or film genres and drama and the novel, the two forms from which the cinema continues to draw a wealth of its material.

Jewish Identity in French Cinema (1950-2010) Serge Bokobza, 2016-02-22 This book examines the expression of a Jewish identity in French films and the characteristics used by filmmakers to portray this nebulous concept in movies produced after the Shoah and World War II. Throughout a sixty-year span French directors struggled to define Jewish identity and a correlation with the larger question of French national identity. The study delves into the larger question of Jewish identity as characterised in works of cinematic fiction in accordance with the history of the Jews of France using the centrality of the emancipation paradigm of 1791 and the theoretical frame provided by Jean Paul Sartre's Reflexions sur la question juive The book identifies and describes three categories of films produced between 1950 and 2010 that represent the manner in which directors portrayed an evolving Jewish identity and its relation to French society rejecting the practice of labeling a film as Jewish because of the ethnicity of a director or writer Based on extensive research including the review of over 200 full length films the book provides an overview of features addressing the concept of Jewish identity and includes a Descriptive Filmography of productions matching the author's definition of a Jewish identity film From the template La Grande Illusion to contemporary releases the book argues that French Jewish identity films dwell in the sociological realm of Jewishness as the epicenter of tension is rooted in identity rather than religion Francophone Women Film Directors Janis L.
