Mind Bomb:

The The Brian J Robb, 2025-09-15 The The was always a personal project for songwriter Matt Johnson. Started in 1979 when Johnson was a teenager, the post-punk outfit became central to the political and personal pop of the 1980s. Never a singles band despite a few minor hits, their albums were successful. Infected in 1986 reached 14, followed by 1989's Mind Bomb at number four and 1993's Dusk at number two. Band members included Johnny Marr and DC Collard, with other collaborators including JG Thirlwell, Jools Holland, Neneh Cherry, Zeke Manyika, and Sinéad O'Connor. A reluctant live musician, Johnson created Infected The Movie instead of a world tour in 1986. The Mind Bomb band, including Marr and Eller, launched the 1989-90 The The vs The World tour. Johnson appeared to retire following 2000's Naked Self, although he kept busy with a sideways move into scoring movies. It wasn't until 2018 that The The returned to playing live, and this was followed in 2024 with the new album Ensoulment and its accompanying tour, almost a quarter of a century after the band's last recorded music. In recent years, Johnson has been busier than ever with podcasts, an Official Bootleg series, and other idiosyncratic projects. The Author Brian J Robb is the New York Times and Sunday Times bestselling biographer of Leonardo DiCaprio, Johnny Depp, and Brad Pitt. He has also written books on silent cinema, the films of Philip K. Dick, Wes Craven, Laurel and Hardy, the Star Wars movies, Superheroes, Gangsters, and Walt Disney, as well as science fiction television series Doctor Who and Star Trek, and Depeche Mode for Sonicbond Publishing. His illustrated books include an Illustrated History of Steampunk and Middle Earth Envisioned, a guide to J.R.R. Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings. Winner, Best Book, Tolkien Society Awards. He is a Founding Editor of the Sci-Fi Bulletin website and lives near Edinburgh, UK.

On the Avenue of the Mystery Gary Hentzi, 2022-10-21 This volume is a study of eight major novels from the postwar period, 1945-65, in conjunction with the films made from them during a later period of a little less than three decades, straddling the millennium, 1985-2012. The comparison of these novels by Ken Kesey, Paul Bowles, Carson McCullers, Jack Kerouac, James Baldwin, Alexander Trocchi, William Burroughs, and Peter Matthiessen, with their film adaptations, offers the opportunity for a historical reassessment, not only of the novels themselves but also of the global counterculture of the years 1965-75, which they prefigure in a variety of ways. Appearing more than a decade after the waning of the counterculture and in some cases as much as fifty years after the novels on which they are based, the films display significant revisions and omissions prompted by the historical and cultural changes of the intervening years. Whereas these changes are nowadays often interpreted in purely political terms, this book argues that the experience of mystery and its decline is central to the novels and films and is a key feature of the period of cultural transformation that they bookend. At once a work of literary criticism, film studies, and cultural history, this book has the potential to reach both an academic audience and the broader readership that has long existed for these novels, as well as the even broader one interested in reappraising the period of the global counterculture among the most important of the influences that have shaped the contemporary world. Adult Stem Cells Kursad Turksen, 2014-04-16 Adult Stem Cells second edition takes a critical look at issues concerning the developmental or differentiation potential for a variety of tissue types and for specific adult stem cell types Since the first edition appeared a decade ago our understanding of adult stem cells and more specifically tissue specific adult stem cells has advanced tremendously And an increased interest in regenerative medicine and potential stem cell applications has driven a quest for better understanding of stem cell biology In turn this has spawned much activity on generation and utilization of more and better reagents to identify and isolate stem cells and stem cell like subpopulations and on assays elucidating their developmental or differentiation potential and functional integration with host tissues and organs In this fully updated new edition chapters cover topics ranging from signaling pathways maintaining stemness in hematopoietic cells to regeneration after injury and endocrine mechanisms underlying the stem cell theory of aging Other chapters cover stem cells by organ or system including pituitary cardiac epithelial teeth lung ovary prostate liver and many more Importantly the authors of the chapters have not only summarized their successes but have also summarized some of the difficulties that each particular field is still facing with respect to maximizing the utility of stem cells in clinical settings Collectively they impart both the excitement and challenges facing stem cell utilization for repair and regeneration making this book essential reading for those involved in stem cell research as well as those involved in clinical assays

Johnny Marr - The Smiths & the Art of Gunslinging Richard Carman, 2015-11-05 The shimmering muscular guitar pop of The Smiths shone like a beacon through the eighties as they took up the mantle of the best British band since The Beatles Their unparalleled musicality inspired a generation of popular bands including Oasis the Stone Roses and Radiohead Johnny Marr was the genius behind that revolutionary sound Manchester born Marr has proved to be a gun slinger without equal a guitarist who rode the longest highways to find the most thrilling sounds and who built the gilt edged frames in which the lyrical portraits of co writer Morrissey sat so perfectly Whilst he may well be remembered forever for the haunting intro to How Soon Is Now Marr has not slowed down creatively inspiring a generation of younger listeners through his work with The Cribs and even working with Hans Zimmer on the stunning soundtrack to the critically acclaimed blockbuster Inception He remains as influential and important as ever a true guitar hero Filled with insight and musical lore The Smiths the Art of Gun Slinging traces the incredible story of how the son of Irish immigrants rose to become the iconic architect of a new sound for British guitar music

VEGF-mediated vascular functions in health and disease Ziquan Cao, 2015-04-24 Angiogenesis is essential for physiological processes including embryonic development tissue regeneration and reproduction Under various pathological conditions the same angiogenic process contribute to the onset development and progression of many human diseases including cancer diabetic complications ocular disease chronic inflammation and cardiovascular disease Vascular endothelial growth factor VEGF is a key angiogenic factor for physiological and pathological angiogenesis In addition to its strong angiogenic activity VEGF also potently induces vascular permeability often causing tissue edema in various pathological tissues VEGF transduces its vascular signal through two tyrosine kinase receptors VEGFR1 and VEGFR2 the latter being a functional receptor that mediates both angiogenic and vascular permeability effects To study physiological and pathological functions of VEGF we developed novel zebrafish disease models that permit us to study hypoxia induced retinopathy and cancer metastasis processes We have also administered anti VEGF and anti VEGFR specific antibodies to healthy mice to study the homeostatic role of VEGF in the maintenance of vascular integrity and its functions in various tissues and organs Finally using a zebrafish model we evaluated if VEGF expression is regulated by circadian clock genes In paper I we developed protocols that create hypoxia induced retinopathy in adult zebrafish Adult fli1 EGFP zebrafish were placed in hypoxic water for 3 10 days with retinal neovascularization being analyzed using confocal microscopy This model provides a unique opportunity to kinetically study the development of retinopathy in adult animals using non invasive protocols and to assess the therapeutic efficacy of orally administered anti angiogenic drugs In paper II we developed a zebrafish metastasis model to dissect the complex events of hypoxia induced tumor cell invasion and metastasis in association with angiogenesis at the single cell level In this model fluorescent DiI labeled human or mouse tumor cells were implanted into the perivitelline cavity of 48 hour old zebrafish embryos which were subsequently placed in hypoxic water for 3 days Tumor cell invasion metastasis and pathological angiogenesis were analyzed using fluorescent microscopy in the living fish The average experimental time for this model is 7 days Our protocol offers an opportunity to study molecular mechanisms of hypoxia induced cancer metastasis In paper III we show that systemic delivery of an anti VEGF or an anti VEGF receptor VEGFR 2 neutralizing antibody cause global vascular regression in mice Among all examined tissues the vasculature in endocrine glands intestinal villi and the uterus are most affected in response to VEGF or VEGFR 2 blockades. Prolonged anti VEGF treatment resulted in a significant decrease in the circulating levels of the predominant thyroid hormone free thyroxine but not the minimal isoform of triiodothyronine suggesting that chronic anti VEGF treatment impairs thyroid function. These findings provide structural and functional bases of anti VEGF specific drug-induced side effects in relation to vascular changes in healthy tissues. In paper IV we show that disruption of the circadian clock by constant exposure to light coupled with genetic manipulation of key genes in the zebrafish led to impaired developmental angiogenesis. A bmal1 specific morpholino inhibited developmental angiogenesis in zebrafish embryos without causing obvious nonvascular phenotypes. Conversely a period2 morpholino accelerated angiogenic vessel growth suggesting that Bmal1 and Period2 display opposing angiogenic effects. These results offer mechanistic insights into the role of the circadian clock in regulation of developmental angiogenesis and our findings may be reasonably extended to other types of physiological or pathological angiogenesis. Overall the results in this thesis provide further insight to angiogenic mechanistic properties in tissues and suggest possible novel therapeutic targets for the treatment of various angiogenesis dependent diseases.

Climate Action Upsurge Stuart Rosewarne, James Goodman, Rebecca Pearse, 2013-11-20. In the late 2000s climate action became a defining feature of the international political agenda. Evidence of global warming and accelerating greenhouse gas emissions created a new sense of urgency and despite consensus on the need for action the growing failure of international climate policy engendered new political space for social movements. By 2007 a climate justice movement was surfacing and developing a strong critique of existing official climate policies and engaging in new forms of direct action to assert the need for reduced extraction and burning of fossil fuels. Climate Action Upsurge offers an insight into this important period in climate movement politics drawing on the perspectives of activists who were directly engaged in the mobilisation process. Through the interpretation of these perspectives the book illustrates important lessons for the climate movement today. In developing its examination of the climate action upsurge the book focuses on individual activists involved in direct action. Climate Camps in Australia while drawing comparisons and highlighting links with climate campaigns in other locales. The book should be of interest to scholars and researchers in climate change environmental sociology politics policy and activism.

Image Politics in the Middle East Lina Khatib, 2012-10-22. Politics in the Middle East is now seen and the image is playing a central part in processes of political struggle. This is the first book in the literature to engage directly with these changing ways of communicating politics in the region and particularly with the politics of the image its power as a political tool. Lina Khatib presents a cross country examination of emerging trends in the use of visuals in political struggles in the Middle East from the Cedar Revolution in Lebanon to the Green Movement in Iran to the Arab Spring in Egypt Syria and Libya. She demonstrates how states activists artists and people on the street are making use of television the social media and mobile phones as well as non electronic forms including posters cartoons billboards and graffiti to convey and mediate political messages She also draws attention to politics as a visual performance by leaders and citizens alike With a particular focus on the visual dynamics of the Arab Spring and based on case studies on the visual dimension of political protest as well as of political campaigning and image management by political parties and political leaders Image Politics in the Middle East shows how visual expression is at the heart of political struggle in the Middle East today It is a hard hitting enjoyable groundbreaking book challenging the traditional ways in which politics in the Middle East is conceived of and analysed
