Minding The Sun:

Minding the Sun Robert Pack, 1996-04-15 The poet concludes the volume with a sobering plea The Trees Will Die to heed the sun's example to cherish and protect our planet and all its living things Problems from Reid James Van Cleve, 2015-08-03 James Van Cleve here shows why Thomas Reid 1710-96 deserves a place alongside the other canonical figures of modern philosophy He expounds Reid's positions and arguments on a wide range of topics taking interpretive stands on points where his meaning is disputed and assessing the value of his contributions to issues philosophers are discussing today Among the topics Van Cleve explores are Reid's account of perception and its relation to sensation conception and belief his nativist account of the origin of the concepts of space and power his attempt to clear the way for the belief that the things we directly perceive are external things not ideas in our minds his stand on the distinction between primary and secondary qualities his account of acquired perception whereby we come to stand in a quasi-perceptual relation to qualities not originally perceived his claim that visual space is non-Euclidean his answers to the questions why we see the world right side up with inverted retinal images and whether a newly sighted person would recognize by sight the shapes he previously knew by touch whether memory-like perception is a form of direct awareness and how we manage to conceive of things that are utterly nonexistent Also examined are Reid's account of human knowledge by means of first principles his externalist reply to philosophical skepticism his volitional theory of action his use of the distinction between event causation and agent causation to understand freedom of the will and his criticism of Hume and anticipation of Moore on the analysis of moral judgment The most comprehensive work on Reid in a quarter century this book will be welcomed by students of early modern philosophy epistemology the philosophy of perception and the philosophy of action Minding the Heavens Leila Belkora, 2021-05-12 Praise for the first edition A terrific blend of the science and the history Martha Haynes Goldwin Smith Professor of Astronomy Cornell University New York USA The book is a treat Highly recommended for public and academic libraries Peter Hepburn now Head Librarian College of the Canyons Santa Clarita California USA Today we recognize that we live on a planet circling the sun that our sun is just one of billions of stars in the galaxy we call the Milky Way and that our galaxy is but one of billions born out of the Big Bang Yet as recently as the early twentieth century the general public and even astronomers had vague and confused notions about what lay beyond the visible stars Can we see to the edge of the universe Do we live in a system that would look from a distance like a spiral nebula This fully updated second edition of Minding the Heavens The Story of Our Discovery of the Milky Way explores how we learned that we live in a galaxy in a universe composed of galaxies and unseen mysterious dark matter The story unfolds through short biographies of seven astronomers Thomas Wright William Herschel and Wilhelm Struve of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the transitional figure of William Huggins and Jacobus Kapteyn Harlow Shapley and Edwin Hubble of the modern big telescope era Each contributed key insights to our present understanding of where we live in the cosmos and each was directly inspired by the work of his predecessors to decipher the construction of the heavens Along the way the narrative weaves in the contributions of those in supportive roles including Caroline Herschel William's sister and the first woman paid to do astronomy and Martha Shapley a mathematician in her own right who carried out calculations for her spouse Through this historical perspective readers will gain a new appreciation of our magnificent Milky Way galaxy and of the beauties of the night sky from ghostly nebulae to sparkling star clusters Features Fully updated throughout to reflect the latest in our understanding of the Milky Way from our central supermassive black hole to the prospect of future mergers with other galaxies in our Local Group Explains the significance of current research including from the Gaia mission mapping our galaxy in unprecedented detail Unique and broadly appealing approach A biographical framework and ample illustrations lead the reader by easy enjoyable steps to a well rounded understanding of the history of astronomy Leila Belkora Ph D Astrophysics is a science writer She earned her doctorate from the University of Colorado Boulder specializing in solar radio astronomy She has previously taught university physics astronomy and communication for engineers She lives in Southern California and enjoys local astronomy outreach activities

Cogito? Joseph Almog, 2008-03-21 Descartes maxim Cogito Ergo Sum from his Meditations is perhaps the most famous philosophical expression ever coined Joseph Almog is a Descartes analyst whose last book WHAT AM I focused on the second half of this expression Sum who is the I who is existing and thinking and how does this entity somehow incorporate both body and mind This volume looks at the first half of the proposition cogito Almog calls this the thinking man's paradox how can there be in the the natural world and as part and parcel of it a creature that thinks Descartes proposition declares that such a fact obtains and he maintains that it is self evident but as Almog points out from the point of view of Descartes own skepticism it is far from obvious that there could be a thinking man How can it be that a thinking human be both part of the natural world and yet somehow distinct and separate from it How did thinking arise in an otherwise thoughtless universe and what does it mean for beings like us to be thinkers Almog goes back to the Meditations and using Descartes own aposteriori cognitive methodology his naturalistic scientific approach to the study of man tries to answer the question
