

MineralRock

Mineral Wool Insulation

Thermal Performance

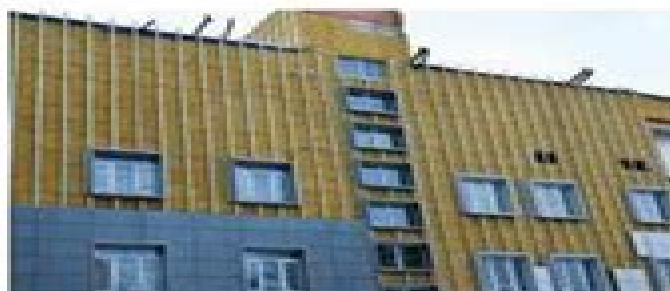

Building code changes constantly, along with requirements to improve thermal efficiency in wall systems. MineralRock assists building owners in achieving thermal efficiency standards by having excellent thermal performance.

Dimensional Stability

The thermal efficiency of the material does not change over time because the material is stone-wool, so it is dimensionally stable. MineralRock has a significantly lower thermal expansion than organic insulation materials similar to foam plastics, that is due to the dimensional stability of the material.

Fire Performance

The non-combustible characteristics of MineralRock insulation mean that it will not develop toxic smoke or promote flame spread even when directly exposed to fire.

MineralRock semi-rigid stone wool insulation board is designed for exterior cavity wall and rainscreen applications. Choose thicknesses between 1.5" to 6" in ½" increments.

Compatible with numerous cladding attachment systems, MineralRock is a durable solution with non-combustible characteristics meaning that the insulation will not develop toxic smoke or promote flame spread even when directly exposed to fire. Approved for many NFPA 285-compliant designs, it is an important component of fire-resilient exterior wall systems when used as a continuous insulation.

MineralRock also offers energy efficiency with reliable thermal performance, improved acoustic comfort, and is moisture resistant to maintain insulating value for the long-term.

- Non-combustible stone wool insulation with max use temperature of 1,200 °F
- Fire-resistant due to its high melting temperature
- Water and moisture resistant; does not absorb moisture to maintain insulating value
- Does not rot or promote the growth of mildew, fungi, or bacteria
- MineralRock can contribute to making buildings more energy efficient
