Brown,Jamel K. Donnor,2013-09-13 The Education of Black Males in a Post Racial World examines the varied structural and discursive contexts of race masculinities and class that shape the educational and social lives of Black males The contributing authors take direct aim at the current discourses that construct Black males as disengaged in schooling because of an autonomous Black male culture and explore how media social sciences school curriculum popular culture and sport can define and constrain the lives of Black males The chapters also provide alternative methodologies theories and analyses for making sense of and addressing the complex needs of Black males in schools and in society By expanding our understanding of how unequal access to productive opportunities and quality resources converge to systemically create disparate experiences and outcomes for African American males this volume powerfully illustrates that race still matters in post racial America This book was originally published as a special issue of Race Ethnicity and Education Geomicrobes: Life in Terrestrial Deep Subsurface Malin Bomberg,Lasse Ahonen,2017-07-17 The deep subsurface is in addition to space one of the last unknown frontiers to human kind A significant part of life on Earth resides in the deep subsurface hiding great potential of microbial life of which we know only little The conditions in the deep terrestrial subsurface are thought to resemble those of early Earth which makes this environment an analog for studying early life in addition to possible extraterrestrial life in ultra extreme conditions Early microorganisms played a great role in shaping the conditions on the young Earth Even today deep subsurface microorganisms interact with their geological environment transforming the conditions in the groundwater and on rock surfaces Essential elements for life are richly present but in difficultly accessible form The elements driving the microbial deep life is still not completely identified Most of the microorganisms detected by novel molecular techniques still lack cultured representatives Nevertheless using modern sequencing techniques and bioinformatics the functional roles of these microorganisms are being revealed We are starting to see the differences and similarities between the life in the deep subsurface and surface domains We may even begin to see the function of evolution by comparing deep life to life closer to the surface of Earth Deep life consists of organisms from all known domains of life This Research Topic reveals some of the rich diversity and functional properties of the great biomass residing in the deep dark subsurface Mining and

Warnock, 2005 Since the expansion of democracy and the election of the CCF Government in 1944 the people of Saskatchewan have consistently felt that natural resources should be developed for the benefit of all In Canada today and in many other countries economic rent from resource extraction and use is considered to be the difference between the basic international price of a commodity less all the costs of production including exploration development of the extraction process operating the system the capital invested and the transportation costs Economic rent under this definition would include the excess profits captured by the corporations as well as the special taxes fees and royalties which are used by governments to try to appropriate a share of the rent for the general public the legal owners of the natural resources The theory is that the private company responsible for the extraction owes royalties to the owners of the resource the general public and this should be considered a basic cost of production For example in 2004 5 there was a major increase in the price of oil and natural gas unrelated to the cost of extraction and the monopoly rent was captured by the private corporations and their owners

Travesty John Laughland, 2006-12-20 Slobodan Milosevic died in prison in 2006 during a four year marathon trial at The Hague for war crimes John Laughland was one of the last Western journalists to meet him He followed the trial from the beginning and wrote extensively on it challenging the legitimacy of the Yugoslav Tribunal and the hypocrisy of international justice in the Guardian and the Spectator In this book Laughland gives a full account of the trial which was the longest criminal trial in history From the moment the indictment was issued at the height of NATO's attack on Yugoslavia to the day of Milosevic's mysterious death in custody International justice is supposed to hold war criminals to account but as the trials of both Milosevic and Saddam Hussein show the indictments are politically motivated and the judicial procedures are irredeemably corrupt Laughland argues that international justice is an impossible dream and that such show trials are little more than a propaganda exercise designed to distract attention from the war crimes committed by Western states
