Among Australia's Pioneers Margaret Slocomb, 2014-07-25 The almost simultaneous abolition of the slave trade and the cessation of convict transportation to the colony of New South Wales now eastern mainland Australia started a quest by the squatter pastoralists for alternative sources of cheap labor for their vast sheep runs Over a period of five years beginning from 1848 around three thousand Chinese men and boys from Fujian Province were recruited under conditions little different from the slave trade In Among Australia's Pioneers author Margaret Slocomb focuses on the experiences of approximately two hundred of these Chinese laborers between 1848 and 1853 Her research examines their working conditions during the five year indenture period and also traces the lives of several of the men who at the end of their contract chose to remain in those districts which by then had become familiar to them Perhaps they regarded themselves as pioneer immigrants Slocomb recounts the experiences of these men on the dangerous northern frontier of European settlement While some succumbed to the despair and loneliness of a shepherd's life others survived their indenture and went on to play an important role in the emerging society of the new colony of Queensland They may certainly be counted among the nation's pioneers Pioneers in

Neuroendocrinology Joseph Meites, 2012-12-06 In the middle and late 1960s when it was clear that neuroendocrinology was established as a discipline in its own right it occurred to us that autobiographical accounts of the pioneer work in this field by the major participants would provide a highly interesting and informative account of his story in the making With the death of G W Harris in late 1971 and the loss thereby of an outstanding pioneer and personality in neuroendocrinology it appeared to us to be even more urgent to undertake such a venture and collect as many stories as possible The three of us agreed that initially we would limit our invitations to the senior investigators whose research careers lay mostly behind them with the hope that if this venture proved successful we could ask younger and still very active researchers in neuroendocrinology to contribute to a subsequent volume Most of those invited to write for this book agreed to do so but regrettably there remain some notable absentees The authors were requested to write a personal and even idiosyncratic account of the steps taken and the motivation and drive that led them to develop their interest in the relationship between the brain and the endocrine system Pioneers of the Field Andrew Bank, 2016-08-11 Focusing on the crucial contributions of women researchers Andrew Bank demonstrates that the modern school of social anthropology in South Africa was uniquely female dominated The book traces the personal and intellectual histories of six remarkable women through the use of a rich cocktail of archival sources including family photographs private and professional correspondence field notes and field diaries published and other public writings and even love letters The book also sheds new light on the close connections between their personal lives their academic work and their anti segregationist and anti apartheid politics It will be welcomed by anthropologists historians and students in African studies interested in the development of social anthropology in twentieth century Africa as well as by students and researchers in the field of gender studies The
