Place And Space Landscapes:

Space, Place, and Landscape in Ancient Greek Literature and Culture Kate Gilhuly, Nancy Worman, 2014-09-22

This book brings together a collection of original essays that engage with cultural geography and landscape studies to produce new ways of understanding place space and landscape in Greek literature from the fifth and fourth centuries BCE. The authors draw on an eclectic collection of contemporary approaches to bring the study of ancient Greek literature into dialogue with the burgeoning discussion of spatial theory in the humanities. The essays in this volume treat a variety of textual spaces from the intimate to the expansive: the bedroom, ritual space, the law courts, theatrical space, the poetics of the city, and the landscape of war. And yet all of the contributions are united by an interest in recuperating some of the many ways in which the ancient Greeks in the archaic and classical periods invested places with meaning and in how the representation of place links texts to social practices.

Modern Approaches to the Visualization of Landscapes Dennis Edler, Corinna Jenal, Olaf Kühne, 2021-01-31. The volume deals with the effects of digitization on spatial and especially landscape construction processes and their visualization. A focus lies on the generation mechanisms of landscapes with digital tools of cartography and geomatics including possibilities to model and visualize non visual stimuli but also spatial temporal changes of physical space. Another focus is on how virtual spaces have already become part of the social and individual construction of landscape. Potentials of combining modern media of spatial visualization and constructivist landscape research are discussed.

Landscapes of the New West Krista Comer, 1999. In the early 1970s, empowered by the civil rights and women's movements, a new group of women writers began speaking to the American public. Their topic broadly defined was the postmodern American West. By the mid 1980s, their combined works made for a bona fide literary groundswell in both critical and commercial terms. However, as Krista Comer notes, despite the attentions of publishers, the media, and millions of readers, literary scholars have rarely addressed this movement or its writers. Too many critics, Comer argues, still enamored of western images that are both masculine and antimodern, have been slow to reckon with the emergence of a new, far more feminine, postmodern, multiracial, and urban west. Here, she calls for a redesign of the field of western cultural studies, one that engages issues of gender and race and is more self-conscious about space itself—especially that cherished symbol of western authenticity, open landscape. Surveying works by Joan Didion, Wanda Coleman, Maxine Hong Kingston, Leslie Marmon Silko, Barbara Kingsolver, Pam Houston, Louise Erdrich, Sandra Cisneros, and Mary Clearman Blew, Comer shows how these and other contemporary women writers have mapped new geographical imaginations upon the cultural and social spaces of today's American West.

Design Things Thomas Binder, Giorgio De Michelis, Pelle Ehn, Giulio Jacucci, Per Linde, 2024-12-17. A new perspective on design thinking and design practice beyond products and projects toward participatory design. Design Things offers an innovative view of design thinking and design practice, envisioning ways to combine creative design with a participatory approach encompassing aesthetic and democratic practices and values. The authors of Design Things look at design practice as a mode of inquiry that involves people space artifacts materials and aesthetic experience following the process of transformation from a design concept to a thing Design Things which grew out of the Atelier Architecture and Technology for Inspirational Living research project goes beyond the making of a single object to view design projects as sociomaterial assemblies of humans and artifacts design things The book offers both theoretical and practical perspectives providing empirical support for the authors conceptual framework with field projects case studies and examples from professional practice The authors examine the dynamics of the design process the multiple transformations of the object of design metamorphosing performing and taking place as design strategies the concept of the design space as emerging landscapes the relation between design and use and the design of controversial things Shared Spaces and Divided Places Deborah L. Rotman, Ellen-Rose Savulis, 2003 This indispensable collection of essays is among the first to seriously link gender and landscape research two major emerging topics in historical archaeology and to explore the relationship between the two Landscapes represent unique as well as collective experiences so it is not without cultural significance that landscapes have historically been codified as female The book represents an intersection of the study of landscape archaeology and space with the study of gender By expanding the definition of landscape to include interior spaces by challenging the equivocation of gendered space with feminized space and by approaching the subject matter dialectically the book promotes an in depth understanding of the issues that arise when scholars apply gender issues to the study of space manipulation Landscape Architecture Framed from an Environmental and Ecological Perspective Mustafa

Ergen, Yasar Ergen, 2022-04-28 Landscape architecture involves designing planning and managing natural and built environments Its goal is to balance natural spaces with the human element As such new methods and analysis techniques are necessary for creating healthy and user friendly spaces in both urban developments and natural environments This book discusses these approaches to planning and designing natural spaces with a focus on sustainability Mining the Landscape Geraldine Mate, 2022-09-12 Mining was one of the primary elements of colonial enterprise in Australia and a factor in movement on colonial frontiers In the second half of the 19th and early 20th century mining particularly of gold saw transformations of the land itself as well as in the way that people working in mining engaged with the landscape around them Landscape archaeology provides a theoretical perspective that allows an articulation of how people created and understood the place in which they lived and worked The impact of and narrative surrounding gold mining has meant that it has long been a focus of study both historical and archaeological The archaeology of mining has traditionally fallen under the umbrella of industrial archaeology with analyses based on historical economic and technological evidence However this is changing From an industrial focus examining the remnants of mines and associated processing equipment archaeology has progressed towards understandings of the social aspects of mining recognising that people not just equipment occupied these landscapes Nevertheless there remains a separation between industrial technology based studies and purely social household based archaeological studies a division that overlooks the integration of home and livelihood This work addresses these very challenges using a landscape based approach that articulates a nuanced meaning laden and experienced mining landscape Integrating the social and the industrial the case study of Mount Shamrock a gold mining town in Queensland Australia demonstrates how this methodology can enhance our understanding of the past The work presents an integration of social and industrial perspectives in a mining settlement and provides an exemplar in the application of landscape theory to Australian historical archaeology These concepts and approaches developed in an Australian context are of universal interest

Place Tim Cresswell, 2014-12-03 Thoroughly revised and updated this text introduces students of human geography and allied disciplines to the fundamental concept of place combining discussion about everyday uses of the term with the complex theoretical debates that have grown up around it A thoroughly revised and updated edition of this highly successful short introduction to place Features a new chapter on the use of place in non geographical arenas such as in ecological theory art theory and practice philosophy and social theory Combines discussion about everyday uses of the term place with the more complex theoretical debates that have grown up around it Uses familiar stories drawn from the news popular culture and everyday life as a way to explain abstract ideas and debates Traces the development of the concept from the 1950s through its subsequent appropriation by cultural geographers and the linking of place to politics
