Plague Of Perfection:

Writing Plague Susan L. Einbinder, 2022-10-11 A wave of plague swept the cities of northern Italy in 1630 31 ravaging Christian and Jewish communities alike In Writing Plague Susan L Einbinder explores the Hebrew texts that lay witness to the event These Jewish sources on the Great Italian Plague have never been treated together as a group Einbinder observes but they can contribute to a bigger picture of this major outbreak and how it affected people institutions and beliefs how individuals and institutions responded and how they did or did not try to remember and memorialize it High self consciousness characterizes many of the authorial voices and the sophisticated and deliberate ways these authors represented themselves reveal a complex process of self fashioning that equally contours the representation and meaning of plague Conversely it is under the strain of plague that conventions of self fashioning come to the fore In the end what proves most striking is how quickly these accounts retreated into obscurity Why was this plague which was among the most documented of all outbreaks since the Black Death of the fourteenth century ultimately consigned to silence in Jewish memory Did the memory take shape outside the written or material remains that we typically consult in ephemeral forms that were lost over time How much were the official genres of commemoration responsible for the erosion of historical particularity How much did these conventionalized forms of mourning help individuals find language for private experience And how conversely was private experience reconfigured to signify public grief Throughout Writing Plague Einbinder unearths and analyzes a cluster of little known texts reading them as much for the things about which they remain silent as for the things they seem openly to express It is a compelling hybrid work of literary criticism and historical reflection about premodern constructions of self and community A Perfect Death Kate Ellis, 2011-01-06 A beguiling author who interweaves past and present The Times When a woman is burned to death in Grandal Field in Devon it looks like it could be a case of mistaken identity Until DI Wesley Peterson learns of a legend involving a woman who died in similar circumstances in the thirteenth century It seems clear that there is a link between the mysterious legend and the recent murder when Wesley discovers that records of a previous site excavation have vanished and two archaeologists involved in the dig died tragically The case echoes a story of twisted love and obsession from many centuries ago and Wesley realises that edging closer to the truth brings unexpected danger Whether you've read the whole series or are discovering Kate Ellis's DI Wesley Peterson novels for the first time this is the perfect page turner if you love reading Elly Griffiths and Ann Cleeves PRAISE FOR KATE ELLIS I loved this novel a powerful story of loss malice and deception Ann Cleeves Haunting Independent Unputdownable Bookseller The chilling plot will keep you spooked and thrilled to the end Closer A gripping read Best A fine storyteller weaving the past and present in a way that makes you want to read on Peterborough Evening Telegraph

If you have any interest at all in epidemiology modern medicine or the survival of the human race do read The Chickens Fight Back Georgia Straight Emerging diseases like mad cow SARS and avian flu are for the moment at least far more prevalent in animals than in humans Still the knowledge that measles TB and smallpox were at one time emerging diseases that eventually made a permanent and quite deadly jump to humans gives epidemiologists pause This book examines the various groups of animal diseases explains what attracts them to the human population from food to sex to living conditions and offers suggestions for keeping them at bay It also points out that diseases must be looked at from an ecological cultural and economic point of view as well as from a biological standpoint Cooking meat till it's well done and slathering on insect repellent for a hike in the woods are effective preventative measures but as the author notes it's more important to fundamentally rethink humankind's place in the world

Albrecht Dürer's master engraving Melencolia I has stood for centuries as a pictorial summa of knowledge about melancholia and an allegory of the limits of earthbound arts and sciences Zealously interpreted since the nineteenth century the work also presides over the origins of modern iconology Yet more than a century of research has left us with a tangle of mutually contradictory theories In Perfection's Therapy Mitchell Merback discovers in Melencolia I's opacity a fascinating possibility that Dürer's masterpiece is not only an arresting diagnosis of melancholic distress but an innovative instrument for its undoing Merback deftly analyses the visual and narrative structure of Dürer's image revisits its philosophical and medical contexts and resituates it within the long history of the therapeutic artifact Placing Dürer's project in dialogue with that of humanism's founder Francesco Petrarca Merback also unearths the German artist's ambition to act as a physician of the soul Celebrated by contemporaries as the Apelles of our age and ever since as Germany's first Renaissance painter theorist the Dürer we encounter here is also the first modern Christian artist addressing himself to the distress of souls including his own Melencolia thus emerges as a key reference point in a project of spiritual ethical therapy a work designed to exercise the mind rebalance the passions remedy the soul and help in getting on with the project of perfection Be a Perfect Man

Andrew J. Romig, 2017-08-28 The life of an aristocratic Carolingian man involved an array of behaviors and duties associated with his gender and rank an education in arms and letters training in horsemanship soldiery and hunting betrothal marriage and the virile production of heirs and the masterful command of a prominent household In Be a Perfect Man Andrew J Romig argues that Carolingian masculinity was constituted just as centrally by the performance of caritas defined by the early medieval scholar Alcuin of York as a complete and all inclusive love for God and for fellow human beings flowing from the whole heart mind and soul The authority of the Carolingian man depended not only on his skills in warfare and landholding but also on his performances of empathy devotion and asceticism Romig maps caritas as a concept rooted in a vast body of inherited Judeo Christian and pagan philosophies shifting in meaning and association from the patristic era to the central Middle Ages Carolingian discussions and representations of caritas served as a discourse of power a means by which early medieval writers made claims both explicit and implicit about the hierarchies of power that they believed ought to exist within their world During the late eighth ninth and early tenth centuries they creatively invoked caritas to link aristocratic men with divine authority Romig gathers conduct handbooks theological tracts poetry classical philosophy church legislation and exegetical texts to outline an associative process of gender ideology in the Carolingian Middle Ages one that framed masculinity asceticism and authority as intimately interdependent The association of power and empathy remains with us to this day Romig argues as a justification for existing hierarchies of authority privilege and prestige Works Philo

The Plague Jacqueline Rose,2023-08-01 A slim heart wrenching and rousing new book from the leading feminist writer Jacqueline Rose In early 2020 when the COVID 19 pandemic began to infiltrate public consciousness sales of The Plague the classic novel by French philosopher Albert Camus skyrocketed At the same time the virus's toll surged exponentially. Amid the harrowing loss, many sensed a glimmer of possibility: the potential for radical empathy wrought by shared experience, even as the death-dealing divisions of class, race, gender, and citizenship were underscored like never before. We have been through a time of living death when for millions across the globe, untold horror has seemed to infiltrate the very air we breathe. Jacqueline Rose's trenchant new book unravels recent history via the lives and works of three extraordinary thinkers: Albert Camus, Sigmund Freud, and Simone Weil, each one afflicted by catastrophe. Their politics and private griefs, the depth of their understanding, fling open a window into our present crises. Rose, one of the most insightful thinkers on politics and psychoanalysis alike, has written a story of unusual range, spanning World War II to Russia's invasion of Ukraine, surging domestic violence to emboldened anti-racist protest, the Spanish influenza to Omicron, Boris Johnson's deranged optimism to Vladimir Putin's megalomania. The Plague: Living Death In Our Times enacts a psychic reckoning for our moment and for the future to be forged in its aftermath. Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine Royal Society of Medicine (Great Britain), 1908. Comprises the proceedings of the various sections of the society, each with separate text and pagination. Journal of the Royal Institute of Public Health, 1908. The Other Mary Shelley Audrey A. Fisch, Anne Kostelanetz Mellor, Esther H. Schor, 1993. Although Frankenstein is now widely read, little attention has been paid to the considerable corpus of Mary Shelley's other works. Ironically, the excitement of the last decade of feminist approaches to Frankenstein has obscured the persona of its author. This book presents the other Mary Shelley, the writer whose shrewd assessments of Romanticism, gender, and society resonate strongly in the setting of contemporary politics, culture, and feminism. Application of The Perfect Redemption Plan: Volume 4 Gery Malanda. In this book, we learn that God will never break His covenant nor ever alter the word coming out of His mouth, for He watches over His word to perform it. As we go through this study, we learn to minister as Jesus ministered and how to heal the sick and cleanse the lepers and raise the dead as Jesus did. We also learn all about Paul's thorn in his flesh and what it actually was that was afflicting him, and also about the calamities of Job and why they came on him. We have been given The Measure of the Father, which is the Faith of Jesus, and that Faith is knowing that God your Father is always faithful, full of love, always good, and is willing to use His power to meet your desires and is not slow concerning His promises. So we learn how to step out in faith and do what we have been called to do. And lastly, we address the question many people ask: Can I sow into some one's anointing?
